2 Tough Convicts Free Another Prison Hostage

Khrush, DeGaulle Open Conferences

PARIS (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev held his first private talk with President Charles de Gaulle for two hours today and presumably plugged some more for a Moscow-Paris axis to replace France's growing alliance with West Germany.

Two interpreters were the only other persons present as the two leaders talked in De Gaulle's private office. The Premier and the French President smiled pleasantly as they emerged and shook hands on the steps of the Elysee Palace. Then Khrushchev drove off to lunch with Premier Michel Debre.

The first talks were held in a very good atmosphere, an aide to De Gaulle said. A high French source said the initial talk was largely exploratory and that De Gaulle and Khrushchev ranged over several subjects in the first of their series of meetings.

Khrushchev arrived at the palace in a pouring rain for the first business talk of his 11-day visit to France. Scores of policemen lined the Premier's route from the foreign office, where he is staying but few Parisians were out.

Despite a grueling 18-hour day of activity Wednesday, the 65-year-old Soviet leader seemed little the worse for wear.

No formal agenda was announced for the Khrushchev-De Gaulle talks, but the Soviet Premier made his objectives clear Wednesday in three public statements. These are his aims:

1. To woo France from her new ties with West Germany and replace the Paris-Bonn alliance with a close French-Soviet understanding.

2. To plug for a German peace treaty on Soviet lines.

3. To hammer away for disarmament on Soviet terms.

4. To weaken the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Western European Union, to both of which West Germany belongs.

What headway he may make is highly problematical. De Gaulle maintained a courteous reserve throughout the opening day of the visit but showed no sympathy with Khrushchev's talk of new danger from Germany.

De Gaulle aired his own view on Germany publicly at a banquet in the Soviet leader's honor at the Elysee Palace Wednesday night. In polite but firm words, he declared the Germans' "unbounded ambition," which had twice menaced the continent in this century, had disappeared. He also disagreed with the standard Soviet line that the West German government seeks revenge for the World War II defeat.

This did not stop Khrushchev from replying with a reference to "the presence of the threat of a revenge" and of calling once more on the West to agree to a peace treaty with Germany, clearly on Soviet terms. And he repeated his bid for a French-Soviet alliance first made in his arrival speech.

East, West OK 6 Arms Points

But Geneva Talkers Split on Procedure

GENEVA (AP) — Delegates of the Soviet bloc and the North Atlantic Alliance tentatively agreed today on six initial principles for the control of an East-West disarmament treaty.

The two sides at the 10-nation disarmament conference remained sharply divided however, on how to go on from there.

The six points of agreement were defined by the French disarmament expert, Jules Moch, on behalf of his own country, the United States, Britain, Italy and Canada.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin welcomed Moch's definition but avoided all discussion of details.

Moch's definition summarized the points of East-West agreement on control principles which the Western delegations believe emerged during the first week of the 10-nation talks.

These were:

1. Acceptance of the need for an international disarmament organization to act as the enforcement organ of a treaty.

2. The need for control of every stage of agreed disarmament from the beginning to the end of the process.

3. The continuation of control after the completion of any agreed disarmament measure to prevent secret violations.

4. The need for full participation of all states in a general worldwide disarmament treaty. This would include particularly Red China, which is not represented at this conference.

5. The need to control the actual cuts in men and weapons made in compliance with the treaty.

6. The need for verification carried out by an international staff of inspectors.

Chessman IQ Now Listed Very Superior

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Condemned Caryl Chessman has increased his superior IQ by three points after 12 death row years of fighting off gas chamber execution.

Chessman's score of 130 in an intelligence test given him this month by San Quentin Prison psychologists ranks him among the top three per cent of the American population in mental ability. The score rates him as possessing very suprior intelligence.

Chessman scored 127 on the same Wechsler-Bellevue testing scale in June, 1941. He entered the prison then on the first of two armed robbery convictions that preceded his 1948 double death sentence for kidnaping, robbing and sexually abusing two Los Angeles women.

His ninth execution date now is scheduled for May 2. He evaded the gas chamber for the eighth time last Feb. 19 when Gov. Edmund G. Brown ordered a reprieve 10 hours before the scheduled execution.

The California Legislature later rejected Brown's proposal that capital punishment be abolished.

Psychologists hold that intelligence, as measured by testing, stays constant through an individual's lifetime or actually may decline slightly after 20 years of age.

But Dr. David G. Schmidt, San Quentin's chief psychiatrist who has worked 28 years at the prison, said he regarded both Chessman's 1941 score of 127 and his 1960 score of 130 as valid.

Blind, Deaf Boy Near Eagle Scout

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Blind and deaf, Richard Joy hopes to become an Eagle Scout this summer.

Richard, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Joy of Van Nuys, Calif., is only one merit badge away from Scouting's highest honor. No other boy in his condition has ever won it.

When Richard was nearly 3, meningitis left him without hearing. He soon lost his sight and speech.

Scoutmaster George Budgen recalls that Richard learned all the knots the first night by holding Budgen's hands as Budgen tied the knots.

Parking Lot Dispute Decision Is Upheld

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An argument which began in a Dayton parking lot in 1956 wound up in the Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday.

The court let stand the conviction of Robert J. Withrow Jr. for refusal to obey a police officer's order to move on because the parking lot was filled. The officer said Withrow's car blocked the sidewalk.

Loose Rattlesnake Joins Plane Ride

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—There they were high in the sky with a rattlesnake loose in their small two-place airplane.

"I almost bailed out right then—even if I didn't have a parachute," reported pilot Clyde Baskin.

Baskin and H. D. Lile bagged five rattlers on a hunt Wednesday and thought all of them were safely packed for the flight home. A mid-flight check showed otherwise. The biggest one—a 4-footer—was missing.

They landed here and quickly cleared out. Nerves calmed, Baskin returned to the plane.

The poisonous reptile was there all right—coiled under a seat.

KHRUSHCHEV IN PARIS — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev (left) rides in a well-guarded car with French President Charles de Gaulle en route to the Quai D'Orsay in Paris. Ohio Supreme Court Plugs Loophole in Sales Tax Law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A multi-million-dollar sales tax loophole has been plugged by the Ohio Supreme Court.

About five million dollars in back taxes and an undetermined amount in the future can be collected as the result of three decisions Wednesday, said Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert J. Kosydar.

A $396,579 tax assessment against the S. S. Kresge Co. was affirmed 6-0, clearing the way for similar collections from other "dime" stores operating in the state.

A second decision unanimously affirmed an $11,000 assessment against the H. J. Heinz Co., food packers. The third ruling upheld an assessment of about $1,500 against Buddies Lunch System, Inc. of Findlay.

In the Kresge case, the assessment followed failure of the store to keep adequate records between 1952 and 1956. The tax commissioner ran test checks at 36 of the chain's 89 Ohio stores to determine the percentage of total sales subject to tax during the audit period.

Kresge's claimed the test period was not representative but the court said it was, as required by statute.

In the Heinz matter the Supreme Court held that Ohio's 3 per cent sales tax applies to advertising material distributed without separate charge by the wholesaler to retailers as a sales aid. Retailers were not assessed in such instances.

Collections ranging to about a million dollars from other wholesalers operating in a similar manner have been opened by the move, Kosydar said.

In the Findlay restaurant case, Buddies contended it was not subject to a sales tax on food consumed on the premises because purchasers ate it at the opposite end of a dining room from the cafeteria counter. It was Eastman Kodak Co. controlled the dining room. The food company operated in the Kodak plant.

The court ruled that a caterer is subject to the tax on food sold in a room equipped by an employer primarily for consumption of lunches on the premises.

Kosydar said the decision applied to similar caterers in Ohio plants and estimated potential collections at about 1½ million dollars.

U.S. Produces Red Papers In Laying Claim to Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States formally rejected today Russia's claim that Berlin is part of Soviet controlled East Germany.

The State Department produced documents in English and Russian which it said "clearly indicate that Berlin was designated as a separate area to be jointly occupied."

The documents were signed by Soviet, American and British representatives in London on Sept. 12, 1944—before Berlin had been captured by Soviet forces.

The action was an effort, in advance of East-West summit talks on Berlin's future, to nail down the Allied legal right to remain in West Berlin until a single peace treaty has been signed with all Germany.

"The documents make clear that the Berlin area was not 'part of' or 'on' the territory to be occupied by any of the powers under the agreement," the department said.

"Rather, the agreement clearly indicates that Berlin was designated as a separate area to be jointly occupied.

"The Allied military forces have remained in Berlin without relinquishing the rights derived from the military defeat of Nazi Germany.

"There is, therefore, no basis suggesting that Berlin has somehow been mysteriously merged with or placed on the territory of one of the occupation powers."

The State Department aimed its words not only at Moscow but at representatives of the East German puppet regime who have been contending in recent months that Western troops are illegally in West Berlin.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has been hammering at this theme in public remarks, claiming it backs up his demand for converting West Berlin into a so-called free, demilitarized city.

The documents cited by the State Department were signed by F. T. Gousev, identified as representative of the Soviet Union on the European advisory commission; William Strang, British representative on the same group; and John Winant, representing the United States.

Chillicothean Seriously Hurt In Shooting

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — A tavern waitress who was shot three times by her estranged husband before he killed himself was listed in fair condition at Chillicothe Hospital today.

Officials said Mrs. Mary Richardson, 31, was wounded by Albert Richardson, 35, who then turned the .22-caliber pistol on himself.

Customers in Coke's tavern, a mile north of here on U.S. 23, ducked for cover from the fusillade of bullets. The bullets aimed at Mrs. Richardson were fired over the heads of diners. She was struck in the left shoulder, chest and head.

Officials said Mrs. Richardson had been talking on a telephone and had just turned away from it when Richardson fired. He had entered the tavern earlier, ordering a sandwich and milk.

Mrs. Richardson had filed for divorce recently and sheriff's deputies were looking for Richardson to serve him some legal papers.

The couple had three children, and Mrs. Richardson has a fourth child by a previous marriage.

Governor Tries To Still Fuss By Liquor Aides

Department Officials Jaw with Members of Governing Board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Liquor Board must get the reputation of being fair — and tough, Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said Wednesday night as members of the board and the Liquor Department assailed each other during a special meeting. DiSalle sought to forestall a battle royal between the groups.

The department believes the board has been "soft" toward permit holders who violate liquor laws and regulations.

But board member John Cianflona asserted:

"So far as I am concerned, the enforcement in the department stinks."

Board chairman Creed J. Lester, former judge of the Mount Vernon Municipal Court, obviously indignant, opened with:

"Never have I been caught in a more unfavorable situation. Frankly, I am shocked that the independence of a quasi-judicial body should be challenged by an administrator."

After two hours of the often heated discussion DiSalle said:

"I have the feeling that there should be improved communication between the board and the administration. Certainly the department should have an ironclad case when it cites a violator before the board. The whole thing in enforcement is the certainty of punishment."

Herman David of Cleveland and Miss Esther Hardy of Fremont, other board members, had cited cases in which they said evidence has been faulty, non-appearing or insufficient.

The governor told the two groups that a permit holder who makes Sunday sales should be given the idea there is no fix.

"We ought to remove the idea that a permit holder can buy protection," he commented.

Representing the Liquor Department were Director Richard C. Crouch and Enforcement Chief Ivan W. Smith.

"Light penalties are a great deterrent to over-all enforcement," Crouch asserted. "A suspension of 7 to 14 days is not much of a deterrant; the mathematical chances of a single permit holder getting caught are slight, so light penalties are almost meaning less."

Crouch said the average penalty for Sunday sales in the last five months of 1959 was 18.7 days suspension. So far this year the penalty for the same offense has been 7.2 days, he said.

Lester said he had no quarrel with those who disagree with board decisions. The board in good faith has tried hard to be fair in its judgments, he said.

However, Cianflona asserted:

"So far as I am concerned, the enforcement in the department stinks. Mr. Smith is a nice boy, but he's going to have to learn. Mr. Crouch is going to have to cooperate. The whole thing won't work if we start throwing bricks at each other."

DiSalle showed obvious unhappiness that Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy was not represented at the meeting, which apparently did clear some of the air between the groups.

Drawbridge Trap Brings Lawsuit

CHICAGO (AP)—John W. Degan Jr., 31 of Lorain, Ohio, has sued the city of Chicago following an incident last Nov. 17 when he became trapped on a rising drawbridge.

The tugboat skipper's car was stalled on the bridge, when whistles blew and bells rang and the structure began to rise. Two passengers with him fled the auto. Degan was hoisted 125 feet into the air over the Calumet River. He clung to a railing as his auto crashed to the street below. Degan hung on and rode the bridge down.

"In the future Capt. Degan will do his traveling in Chicago by boat," said his attorney.

Senate Will Get Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed its five-point civil rights bill today and sent it on to the Senate where the measure was already being tagged unsatisfactory by both extremes in the big battle there over this issue.

The House passage vote was anticlimactic. A final vote had been delayed since Wednesday by a Southern parliamentary maneuver. But the issue really was settled two days ago when the House adopted the key provision—a plan for court-appointed referees to help Negroes fight voting discrimination.

The House voted 295-124 Wednesday to confirm its key decision. That is for referees to be appointed by federal courts where they find that a pattern of discrimination in voting rights exists. The referees are to certify the eligibility of qualified Negroes, or members of other minorities, and supervise their exercise of their rights.

The Senate, which may get the bill late today, faces continued determined efforts by Southerners to delay it, fatally if possible. If the Senate changes the bill in any way, Southerners in the House will have another chance to throw blocks in its path.

Various courses of Senate action are open, and both Democratic and Republican leaders declined to tip their hand in advance.

In addition to the referee provision, the House bill seeks to support voting rights with a provision designed to prevent deliberate frustration by local officials of federal investigation. This provision requires that election records be preserved at least two years and shown to the attorney general's representatives on demand.

The three other key provisions of the bill would:

1. Provide federal penalties—up to $1,000 fine and 60 days in jail—for interference by violence or threats with the carrying out of a school integration order issued by a federal court. Proponents said the disturbances at Little Rock, Ark., which led to the calling out of federal troops, inspired this section.

2. Make possible FBI participation in the investigation of bombing cases. This would be done by defining as federal crimes efforts to escape prosecution for bombings, threats or false reports of bombings, by crossing state lines. The penalties would range up to $5,000 fine and five years imprisonment.

3. Authorize creation of special federal schools for the children of servicemen, living on or off government posts, if they were cut off from public education by the closing of local schools to avoid court orders against segregation.

Dixiecrat-GOP Coalition Ends In Rights Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats which long has ruled the roost in the House has reached a parting of the ways over civil rights legislation.

Whether the estrangement will be smoothed over or there will be a complete divorce remains to be seen.

After Wednesday's key voting on a referee provision in the civil rights bill, some influential Southerners were irate over the wholesale support given the provision by Republicans.

Southern Democrats fought the proposal with everything they had. They had counted on substantial GOP support. The vote was 295-124 in favor of the provision, the opposition coming from 100 Southern Democrats and 24 Republicans. On the prevailing side were 172 Democrats and 123 Republicans.

Southerners who long have helped the GOP minority upset the Northern Democrats — including votes to sustain numerous Eisenhower vetoes — were vocally bitter about the showing.

They wouldn't comment for attribution but they made no effort to conceal their feelings privately.

"The coalition," said one of them, "has been a fine thing when it was to the advantage of the Republicans. We have been making them look good and making our own leaders look bad. When they needed us, we have been there. But on civil rights, the one thing of vital interest to us, they ran out on us. It's time we broke up this marriage."

Guard Reports 'Nobody Hurt'

At Least 15 Persons Held in Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Two hardened convicts released one of their hostages in the Tennessee Penitentiary shortly before noon because of illness.

A prison spokesman said that left 15 hostages with the armed convicts. Another source said it left 17.

Jack Warrick, a prison guard and telephone operator was released to get a bottle of milk because he has stomach ulcers. Sam Broyles, a convict-hostage, was released Wednesday night for the same reason and did not return. Newsmen were unable to talk to him.

Charles Cottle a prison psychologist, said Warrick told him the convicts have treated all their hostages well.

"Nobody has been hurt or roughed up," Warrick told the psychologist.

Warrick was not permitted to talk to newsmen at the prison and was not taken back into the room with the other hostages. He said he believed one of the convicts was ready to come out if the other one would agree.

Other developments inside the prison led officials to hope for an early agreement to release the hostages.

Robert Rivera, 25, of Temple, Tex., serving 40 years on an armed robbery charge, and Charles Raymond Farra, 25, of Borderland, W.Va., serving life for robbery, have held 16 to 19 hostages at gun-point since mid-afternoon Wednesday. None was hurt. Three hostages are women.

Rivera told a newsman in a telephone interview on a pool basis

Ohio Teamster Boss Indicted

Presser Accused Of Destroying Data

CLEVELAND (AP) — Alleged mutilation of an invoice listing recipients of $100 gift champagne buckets is the basis of a federal grand jury indictment against William Presser, 52, president of the Ohio Teamsters Union Conference.

The invoice was among records the Senate Rackets Committee subpoenaed March 21, 1958.

The grand jury indictment, returned Wednesday, charged Presser with obstructing justice by partly destroying the invoice, which allegedly listed eight persons to whom the champagne buckets were to be sent as Christmas presents in 1955.

Presser is charged also with concealing and withholding from the committee an envelope with the notation "Christmas list" and a memorandum containing a list of names with items of merchandise or amounts of money written next to them.

Conviction on the charge could bring a maximum penalty of a $5,000 fine and five years in prison.

Presser was out of town and not available for comment Wednesday night. His attorney, William J. Corrigan, said Presser will appear in U.S. District Court here when a time for arraignment on the indictment is set.

Frank J. Kiernan, special attorney for the U.S. Department of Justice, said the Senate committee had served on Presser a subpoena calling on the Teamsters Council to produce its records for the period from Jan. 1 1949 to Jan. 1, 1958.

The committee charged that when the invoice came into its possession the lower part, allegedly containing the eight names, had been torn off. The indictment alleges the mutilation took place between Sept. 9 and 13, 1958.

Testimony before the committee late in 1958 identified three recipients of champagne buckets as Ray C. Bliss, Ohio Republican George H. Bender, and a "Connell," later identified by the committee as James C. Connell, U.S. district judge here.

Connell and Bender denied receiving buckets, but Bliss said he had.

Parkers Urged To Observe Meter Signs

City Service Director Carl Radcliff today urged motorists to observe the parking signs on local traffic meters.

He said night parkers are requested to heed the time limits printed on the signs. The parking time rules are set up to allow the service department to sweep city streets.

According to the signs, no parking is allowed on one side of a street from 2 a. m. to 7 a. m. on Tuesdays, Thursdays On the other side of the street, the signs list no parking from 2 a. m. to 7 a. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Radcliff said his department plans to start sweeping streets immediately. He said the heavy amount of sand used in recent snows has left streets in much need of cleaning.

The service director said the parking meter signs are provided for by a city ordinance. As a warning to parkers, he said the law will be enforced.

Symington's Hat in Ring! 4-Point Program Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) laid down a four-point peace-and-progress program in a formal announcement today he is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination.

His statement avoided direct mention of the primary theme he has pursued in months of campaigning—that the United States is falling dangerously behind the Soviet Union in the development of intercontinental missiles.

Instead, Symington confined himself to the statement that "only a first-rate, first-class, first-place America can reinforce the world's faith in freedom and secure a just and lasting peace."

He said the next president of the United States—which he wants to be—"must provide the free world with resourceful and decisive leadership." In the past, Symington has accused President Eisenhower of failing to supply the country with leadership.

His leading rival, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) unannounced among the major Senate aspirants for the nomination. Johnson gave no indication he plans to change his course.

Symington said he would emphasize four major policies in campaigning for the nomination.

He listed these as:

1. Negotiation with the Soviet Union from a position of strength, including a worldwide "good trader—good neighbor" policy. He called for "a better foreign service, a more realistic economic development both at home and abroad and an effective campaign to tell the world about America."

2. A public investment program in education, health, slum clearance, water control and benefits for the elderly and disabled.

3. A program to "reverse the present trend toward the elimination and help him attain a standard of living comparable with other Americans."

4. Programs "which would guarantee to every citizen equal rights and equal opportunity."

Symington said the cost of such programs could be met by eliminating waste in the management of government agencies.

About five million dollars in back taxes and an undetermined amount in the future can be collected as the result of three decisions Wednesday, said Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert J. Kosydar.

A $396,579 tax assessment against the S. S. Kresge Co. was affirmed 6-0, clearing the way for similar collections from other "dime" stores operating in the state.

A second decision unanimously affirmed an $11,000 assessment against the H. J. Heinz Co., food packers. The third ruling upheld an assessment of about $1,500 against Buddies Lunch System, Inc. of Findlay.

In the Kresge case, the assessment followed failure of the store to keep adequate records between 1952 and 1956. The tax commissioner ran test checks at 36 of the chain's 89 Ohio stores to determine the percentage of total sales subject to tax during the audit period.

Kresge's claimed the test period was not representative but the court said it was, as required by statute.

In the Heinz matter the Supreme Court held that Ohio's 3 per cent sales tax applies to advertising material distributed without separate charge by the wholesaler to retailers as a sales aid. Retailers were not assessed in such instances.

Collections ranging to about a million dollars from other wholesalers operating in a similar manner have been opened by the move, Kosydar said.

In the Findlay restaurant case, Buddies contended it was not subject to a sales tax on food consumed on the premises because purchasers ate it at the opposite end of a dining room from the cafeteria counter. It was Eastman Kodak Co. controlled the dining room. The food company operated in the Kodak plant.

The court ruled that a caterer is subject to the tax on food sold in a room equipped by an employer primarily for consumption of lunches on the premises.

Kosydar said the decision applied to similar caterers in Ohio plants and estimated potential collections at about 1½ million dollars.

U.S. Produces Red Papers In Laying Claim to Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States formally rejected today Russia's claim that Berlin is part of Soviet controlled East Germany.

The State Department produced documents in English and Russian which it said "clearly indicate that Berlin was designated as a separate area to be jointly occupied."

The documents were signed by Soviet, American and British representatives in London on Sept. 12, 1944—before Berlin had been captured by Soviet forces.

The action was an effort, in advance of East-West summit talks on Berlin's future, to nail down the Allied legal right to remain in West Berlin until a single peace treaty has been signed with all Germany.

"The documents made clear that the Berlin area was not 'part of' or 'on' the territory to be occupied by any of the powers under the agreement," the department said.

"Rather, the agreement clearly indicates that Berlin was designated as a separate area to be jointly occupied.

"The Allied military forces have remained in Berlin without relinquishing the rights derived from the military defeat of Nazi Germany.

"There is, therefore, no basis suggesting that Berlin has somehow been mysteriously merged with or placed on the territory of one of the occupation powers."

The State Department aimed its words not only at Moscow but at representatives of the East German puppet regime who have been contending in recent months that Western troops are illegally in West Berlin.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has been hammering at this theme in public remarks, claiming it backs up his demand for converting West Berlin into a so-called free, demilitarized city.

The documents cited by the State Department were signed by F. T. Gousev, identified as representative of the Soviet Union on the European advisory commission; William Strang, British representative on the same group; and John Winant, representing the United States.

Chillicothean Seriously Hurt In Shooting

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — A tavern waitress who was shot three times by her estranged husband before he killed himself was listed in fair condition at Chillicothe Hospital today.

Officials said Mrs. Mary Richardson, 31, was wounded by Albert Richardson, 35, who then turned the .22-caliber pistol on himself.

Customers in Coke's tavern, a mile north of here on U.S. 23, ducked for cover from the fusillade of bullets. The bullets aimed at Mrs. Richardson were fired over the heads of diners. She was struck in the left shoulder, chest and head.

Officials said Mrs. Richardson had been talking on a telephone and had just turned away from it when Richardson fired. He had entered the tavern earlier, ordering a sandwich and milk.

Mrs. Richardson had filed for divorce recently and sheriff's deputies were looking for Richardson to serve him some legal papers.

The couple had three children, and Mrs. Richardson has a fourth child by a previous marriage.

Governor Tries To Still Fuss By Liquor Aides

Department Officials Jaw with Members of Governing Board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Liquor Board must get the reputation of being fair — and tough, Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said Wednesday night as members of the board and the Liquor Department assailed each other during a special meeting. DiSalle sought to forestall a battle royal between the groups.

The department believes the board has been "soft" toward permit holders who violate liquor laws and regulations.

But board member John Cianflona asserted:

"So far as I am concerned, the enforcement in the department stinks."

Board chairman Creed J. Lester, former judge of the Mount Vernon Municipal Court, obviously indignant, opened with:

"Never have I been caught in a more unfavorable situation. Frankly, I am shocked that the independence of a quasi-judicial body should be challenged by an administrator."

After two hours of the often heated discussion DiSalle said:

"I have the feeling that there should be improved communication between the board and the administration. Certainly the department should have an ironclad case when it cites a violator before the board. The whole thing in enforcement is the certainty of punishment."

Herman David of Cleveland and Miss Esther Hardy of Fremont, other board members, had cited cases in which they said evidence has been faulty, non-appearing or insufficient.

The governor told the two groups that a permit holder who makes Sunday sales should be given the idea there is no fix.

"We ought to remove the idea that a permit holder can buy protection," he commented.

Representing the Liquor Department were Director Richard C. Crouch and Enforcement Chief Ivan W. Smith.

"Light penalties are a great deterrent to over-all enforcement," Crouch asserted. "A suspenslion of 7 to 14 days is not much of a deterrant; the mathematical chances of a single permit holder getting caught are slight, so light penalties are almost meaning less."

Crouch said the average penalty for Sunday sales in the last five months of 1959 was 18.7 days suspension. So far this year the penalty for the same offense has been 7.2 days, he said.

Lester said he had no quarrel with those who disagree with board decisions. The board in good faith has tried hard to be fair in its judgments, he said.

However, Cianflona asserted:

"So far as I am concerned, the enforcement in the department stinks. Mr. Smith is a nice boy, but he's going to have to learn. Mr. Crouch is going to have to cooperate. The whole thing won't work if we start throwing bricks at each other."

DiSalle showed obvious unhappiness that Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy was not represented at the meeting, which aparently did clear some of the air between the groups.

Drawbridge Trap Brings Lawsuit

CTICAGO (AP)—John W. Degan Jr., 31 of Lorain, Ohio, has sued the city of Chicago following an incident last Nov. 17 when he became trapped on a rising drawbridge.

The tugboat skipper's car was stalled on the bridge, when whistles blew and bells rang and the structure began to rise. Two passengers with him fled the auto.

Degan was hoisted 125 feet into the air over the Calumet River. He clung to a railing as his auto crashed to the street below. Degan hung on and rode the bridge down.

"In the future Capt. Degan will do his traveling in Chicago by boat," said his attorney.

Senate Will Get Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed its five-point civil rights bill today and sent it on to the Senate where the measure was already being tagged unsatisfactory by both extremes in the big battle there over this issue.

The House passage vote was anticlimactic. A final vote had been delayed since Wednesday by a Southern parliamentary maneuver. But the issue really was settled two days ago when the House adopted the key provision—a plan for court-appointed referees to help Negroes fight voting discrimination.

The House voted 295-124 Wednesday to confirm its key decision. That is for referees to be appointed by federal courts where they find that a pattern of discrimination in voting rights exists. The referees are to certify the eligibility of qualified Negroes, or members of other minorities, and supervise their exercise of their rights.

The Senate, which may get the bill late today, faces continued determined efforts by Southerners to delay it, fatally if possible. If the Senate changes the bill in any way, Southerners in the House will have another chance to throw blocks in its path.

Various courses of Senate action are open, and both Democratic and Republican leaders declined to tip their hand in advance.

In addition to the referee provision, the House bill seeks to support voting rights with a provision designed to prevent deliberate frustration by local officials of federal investigation. This provision requires that election records be preserved at least two years and shown to the attorney general's representatives on demand.

The three other key provisions of the bill would:

1. Provide federal penalties—up to $1,000 fine and 60 days in jail—for interference by violence or threats with the carrying out of a school integration order issued by a federal court. Proponents said the disturbances at Little Rock, Ark., which led to the calling out of federal troops, inspired this section.

2. Make possible FBI participation in the investigation of bombing cases. This would be done by defining as federal crimes efforts to escape prosecution for bombings, threats or false reports of bombings, by crossing state lines. The penalties would range up to $5,000 fine and five years imprisonment.

3. Authorize creation of special federal schools for the children of servicemen, living on or off government posts, if they were cut off from public education by the closing of local schools to avoid court orders against segregation.

Dixiecrat-GOP Coalition Ends In Rights Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats which long has ruled the roost in the House has reached a parting of the ways over civil rights legislation.

Whether the estrangement will be smoothed over or there will be a complete divorce remains to be seen.

After Wednesday's key voting on a referee provision in the civil rights bill, some influential Southerners were irate over the wholesale support given the provision by Republicans.

Southern Democrats fought the proposal with everything they had. They had counted on substantial GOP support. The vote was 295-124 in favor of the provision, the opposition coming from 100 Southern Democrats and 24 Republicans. On the prevailing side were 172 Democrats and 123 Republicans.

Southerners who long have helped the GOP minority upset the Northern Democrats — including votes to sustain numerous Eisenhower vetoes — were vocally bitter about the showing.

They wouldn't comment for attribution but they made no effort to conceal their feelings privately.

"The coalition," said one of them, "has been a fine thing when it was to the advantage of the Republicans. We have been making them look good and making our own leaders look bad. When they needed us, we have been there. But on civil rights, the one thing of vital interest to us, they ran out on us. It's time we broke up this marriage."

Ohio Teamster Boss Indicted

Presser Accused Of Destroying Data

CLEVELAND (AP) — Alleged mutilation of an invoice listing recipients of $100 gift champagne buckets is the basis of a federal grand jury indictment against William Presser, 52, president of the Ohio Teamsters Union Conference.

The invoice was among records the Senate Rackets Committee subpoenaed March 21, 1958.

The grand jury indictment, returned Wednesday, charged Presser with obstructing justice by partly destroying the invoice, which allegedly listed eight persons to whom the champagne buckets were to be sent as Christmas presents in 1955.

Presser is charged also with concealing and withholding from the committee an envelope with the notation "Christmas list" and a memorandum containing a list of names with items of merchandise or amounts of money written next to them.

Conviction on the charge could bring a maximum penalty of a $5,000 fine and five years in prison.

Presser was out of town and not available for comment Wednesday night. His attorney, William J. Corrigan, said Presser will appear in U.S. District Court here when a time for arraignment on the indictment is set.

Frank J. Kiernan, special attorney for the U.S. Department of Justice, said the Senate committee had served on Presser a subpoena calling on the Teamsters Council to produce its records for the period from Jan. 1 1949 to Jan. 1, 1958.

The committee charged that when the invoice came into its possession the lower part, allegedly containing the eight names, had been torn off. The indictment alleges the mutilation took place between Sept. 9 and 13, 1958.

Testimony before the committee late in 1958 identified three recipients of champaigne buckets as Ray C. Bliss, Ohio Republican George H. Bender, and a "Connell," later identified by the committee as James C. Connell, U.S. district judge here.

Connell and Bender denied receiving buckets, but Bliss said he had.

Guard Reports 'Nobody Hurt'

At Least 15 Persons Held in Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Two hardened convicts released one of their hostages in the Tennessee Penitentiary shortly before noon because of illness.

A prison spokesman said that left 15 hostages with the armed convicts. Another source said it left 17.

Jack Warrick, a prison guard and telephone operator was released to get a bottle of milk because he has stomach ulcers. Sam Broyles, a convict-hostage, was released Wednesday night for the same reason and did not return. Newsmen were unable to talk to him.

Charles Cottle a prison psycologist, said Warrick told him the convicts have treated all their hostages well.

"Nobody has been hurt or roughed up," Warrick told the psychologist.

Warrick was not permitted to talk to newsmen at the prison and was not taken back into the room with the other hostages. He said he believed one of the convicts was ready to come out if the other one would agree.

Other developments inside the prison led officials to hope for an early agreement to release the hostages.

Robert Rivera, 25, of Temple, Tex., serving 40 years on an armed robbery charge, and Charles Raymond Farra, 25, of Borderland, W.Va., serving life for robbery, have held 16 to 19 hostages at gun-point since mid-afternoon Wednesday. None was hurt. Three hostages are women.

Rivera told a newsman in a telephone interview on a pool basis

Parkers Urged To Observe Meter Signs

City Service Director Carl Radcliff today urged motorists to observe the parking signs on local traffic meters.

He said night parkers are requested to heed the time limits printed on the signs. The parking time rules are set up to allow the service department to sweep city streets.

According to the signs, no parking is allowed on one side of a street from 2 a. m. to 7 a. m. on Tuesdays, Thursdays On the other side of the street, the signs list no parking from 2 a. m. to 7 a. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Radcliff said his department plans to start sweeping streets immediately. He said the heavy amount of sand used in recent snows has left streets in much need of cleaning.

The service director said the parking meter signs are provided for by a city ordinance. As a warning to parkers, he said the law will be enforced.

Symington's Hat in Ring! 4-Point Program Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) laid down a four-point peace-and-progress program in a formal announcement today he is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination.

His statement avoided direct mention of the primary theme he has pursued in months of campaigning—that the United States is falling dangerously behind the Soviet Union in the development of intercontinental missiles.

Instead, Symington confined himself to the statement that "only a first-rate, first-class, first-place America can reinforce the world's faith in freedom and secure a just and lasting peace."

He said the next president of the United States—which he wants to be—"must provide the free world with resourceful and decisive leadership." In the past, Symington has accused President Eisenhower of failing to supply the country with leadership.

His action left only Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) unannounced among the major Senate aspirants for the nomination. Johnson gave no indication he plans to change his course.

Symington said he would emphasize four major policies in campaigning for the nomination.

He listed these as:

1. Negotiation with the Soviet Union from a position of strength, including a worldwide "good trader—good neighbor" policy. He called for "a better foreign service, a more realistic economic development both at home and abroad and an effective campaign to tell the truth about America."

2. A public investment program in education, health, slum clearance, highways, water control and benefits for the elderly and disabled.

3. A program to "reverse the present trend toward the elimina- and help him attain a standard of living comparable with other Americans."

4. Programs "which would guarantee to every citizen equal rights and equal opportunity."

Symington said the cost of such programs could be met by eliminating waste in the management of government agencies.

Post Office Assures Speedier First Class Mail Service

Sweeping improvements providing next day first class letter delivery service for more than 2,032,359 people throughout the 16,482 square mile Columbus Metropolitan Postal Area, embracing Franklin, Pickaway and 32 surrounding counties — were announced today by Arthur E. Summerfield, Postmaster General.

Leo L. Lambert, acting regional operations director of the Cincinnati Region of the Post Office Dept., at a press conference in the office of Postmaster Allan M. Rowe, stated that postal patrons in the area were assured that first class letters mailed before normal closing time, which in most post offices is 5 p. m., will be delivered to their destinations within the area on the first delivery trips of the following business day.

Columbus is one of several cities in the nation to inaugurate this important service improvement, Lambert pointed out. Similar programs have been inaugurated in 64 areas throughout the country. The Columbus Metro Postal Area adjoins the Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Indianapolis, Ind. areas already activated.

"Mailing early in the day, thereby giving the post office time to sort and transport mail to its destination, is the best way to be sure your letter is delivered next day in the Metropolitan Area,". Lambert explained.

* * *

"THIS PROGRAM for better first class mail service has been in test operation throughout the Columbus Metropolitan Postal Area since March 23, 1959. During this shakedown period results have been satisfactory, despite occasional human errors in dispatching mail which are unfortunately inevitable in a service organization like the Post Office Dept."

"The major improvements in the Columbus Metropolitan Postal Area's first class letter mail service pattern are the result of intensive study and planning. Personnel from the Cincinnati Postal Region and 443 post offices in the Columbus Metropolitan Postal Area have worked as a team to develop a comprehensive service program and put it into effect," Lambert reported.

The population of this area is increasing rapidly and the resultant postal service pattern is becoming increasingly complex. Not only is this true, but transportation patterns are being affected by withdrawal of train service, making it necessary to establish other media of transportation to secure good service.

Many of the postal buildings and facilities in this area were built many years ago when operating conditions were entirely different and when the volume of mail was only one-third or one-fourth of present day load. Many of the facilities are inadequate judged by present day accepted standards.

Motor vehicle service and Star Route contracts have been revised in several localities of the area, to permit post offices to dispatch all of their final collections of mail to connect with dispatches of value to Columbus and other points in the area.

Collection schedules were revamped in the delivery offices to coordinate latest possible collections with the last dispatch of the business day at these offices.

* * *

ALL OF THESE Improvements which will speed deliveries have been accomplished with only a nominal increase in overall cost, which the Post Office Dept. expects to absorb with efficiencies that will result from training and experience achieved in carrying out the new program, Lambert added.

"Next day delivery of most of the first class mail in the Columbus Metropolitan Area is now possible because of closely integrated schedules which govern the work of the Area's postal units and the transportation linking them together.

Faithful employees race against time throughout the night in order to make possible next day delivery of hundreds of thousands of letters to people in the area," Mr. Lambert explained.

"The experience gained here in improving first class mail service will be used as rapidly as humanly possible in other large metropolitan areas of the nation," Lambert emphasized.

"Furthermore, the improvement of first class mail service in the Columbus area will be reflected in better service all over America since a large proportion of the United States mail originates or terminates in cities like Columbus, strategically located to serve a large area," he concluded.

The Columbus Metropolitan Postal Area includes the following 34 counties:

Athens, Champaign, Clark, Coshocton, Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette, Franklin, Gallia, Guernsey, Harrison;

* * *

HOCKING, Jackson, Knox, Lawrence, Licking, Logan, Madison, Marion, Meigs, Morgan, Monroe;

Morrow, Muskingum, Noble, Perry, Pickaway, Pike, Scioto, Ross, Tuscarawas, Union, Vinton and Washington.

Registration Is Clarified

The Pickaway County Board of Elections today clarified registration requirements for the forthcoming May 3 primary election.

If registration is put into effect here, residents will be required to register prior to the November 1 general election, not prior to the primary election.

Several plans have been proposed to accomplish registration at convenience of the voter. One plan is to open the county's 45 precincts for one day in August to register all voters.

Another plan under consideration is to hold registration at the primary election. Persons voting in the primary may register at that time.

But regardless of whether they register or not, all eligible voters may ballot at the primary election without registering previously.

Legion Plans 'Flag Flying' Campaign

The local Hall-Adkins American Legion Post will start its "Flag Flying Campaign" here Saturday.

Hall-Adkins officials said local merchants may get two flags for the price of one. They said merchants buying one flag will get the second one free through compliments of the local American Legion.

Members of the legion are slated to contact merchants starting Saturday. They will have samples of various sized flags which are ideal for displaying.

The voting booth of Ward 4-B has been changed from the Nazarene Church basement, corner of S. Pickaway and Walnut Sts., to the South Court Street Elementary School, S. Court St.

Four Juveniles Are Cited Here

Circleville police have filed complaints against four local juveniles accused of taking a woman's pocketbook and other articles at Circleville High School.

Officers said the youths were picked up last week for investigation. They said a timing device, a stop watch, a magnifying glass and various kitchen utensils were recovered.

Patrolmen also recovered a pocketbook belonging to Mrs. Milo Wise, 401 Ruth Ave. The purse was taken during a basketball game at the local gymnasium last week.

Sergeant Turney Ross said the stop watch and other articles were taken from the school's band room and home economics rooms.

Sgt. Leroy Hawks and Patrolman Richard Anderson worked with Sgt. Ross on the investigation. They said the youths will be referred to the local juvenile court.

that he would surrender if officials would release Farra from prison or if Farra would agree to the surrender. State authorities would make no agreement to release either man.

"We can hold out here a long time," Rivera told the newsman. "We won't hurt the women unless we are rushed. We haven't cursed the women. We can wait. We might be awful skinny (before it's over) but we can wait."

Rivera asked to talk to one newsman on the pool arrangement so he could list some of his grievances. The convict then listened on an extension phone while a trusty, held among the hostages, listed them.

The trusty said River's complaints included:

Procedures of the parole board in considering parole applications, the prison merit system, lack of proper medical attention, sanitary conditions at the prison, lack of educational facilities for inmates and the use of paddles for spanking unruly prisoners.

Rivera then permitted one of the hostages, Byron Bean, Nashville lawyer, to speak by telephone to the newsman. Bean, caught in the group while visiting a client, said the two convicts were holding 18 hostages, including five trusties. One, Sam Broyles, was released during the night because of illness. He suffers from stomach ulcers.

Rivera was sentenced for robbing of a motel at Dover, Tenn., in 1956. He also was serving a concurrent term for shooting a state highway patrolman during his effort to flee after the robbery.

Bomar described him as "one of the meanest prisoners we've ever had here."

Prison records show Farra is a former mental patient at the State Hospital for the Criminally Insane. He escaped, was recaptured several days later and then was placed in the penitentiary.

The hostages include Assistant Deputy Warden Carl Burns, four guards, two transportation officers, a prison telephone operator, Bean, two women employes, the wife of a convict and the prisoners who apparently took no part in the revolt.

Post Office Assures Speedier First Class Mail Service

Sweeping improvements providing next day first class letter delivery service for more than 2,032,359 people throughout the 16,482 square mile Columbus Metropolitan Postal Area, embracing Franklin, Pickaway and 32 surrounding counties — were announced today by Arthur E. Summerfield, Postmaster General.

Leo L. Lambert, acting regional operations director of the Cincinnati Region of the Post Office Dept., at a press conference in the office of Postmaster Allan M. Rowe, stated that postal patrons in the area were assured that first class letters mailed before normal closing time, which in most post offices is 5 p. m., will be delivered to their destinations within the area on the first delivery trips of the following business day.

Columbus is one of several cities in the nation to inaugurate this important service improvement, Lambert pointed out. Similar programs have been inaugurated in 64 areas throughout the country. The Columbus Metro Postal Area adjoins the Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Indianapolis, Ind. areas already activated.

"Mailing early in the day, thereby giving the post office time to sort and transport mail to its destination, is the best way to be sure your letter is delivered next day in the Metropolitan Area,". Lambert explained.

* * *

"THIS PROGRAM for better first class mail service has been in test operation throughout the Columbus Metropolitan Postal Area since March 23, 1959. During this shakedown period results have been satisfactory, despite occasional human errors in dispatching mail which are unfortunately inevitable in a service organization like the Post Office Dept."

"The major improvements in the Columbus Metropolitan Postal Area's first class letter mail service pattern are the result of intensive study and planning. Personnel from the Cincinnati Postal Region and 443 post offices in the Columbus Metropolitan Postal Area have worked as a team to develop a comprehensive service program and put it into effect," Lambert reported.

The population of this area is increasing rapidly and the resultant postal service pattern is becoming increasingly complex. Not only is this true, but transportation patterns are being affected by withdrawal of train service, making it necessary to establish other media of transportation to secure good service.

Many of the postal buildings and facilities in this area were built many years ago when operating conditions were entirely different and when the volume of mail was only one-third or one-fourth of present day load. Many of the facilities are inadequate judged by present day accepted standards.

Motor vehicle service and Star Route contracts have been revised in several localities of the area, to permit post offices to dispatch all of their final collections of mail to connect with dispatches of value to Columbus and other points in the area.

Collection schedules were revamped in the delivery offices to coordinate latest possible collections with the last dispatch of the business day at these offices.

* * *

ALL OF THESE improvements which will speed deliveries have been accomplished with only a nominal increase in overall cost, which the Post Office Dept. expects to absorb with efficiencies that will result from training and experience achieved in carrying out the new program, Lambert added.

"Next day delivery of most of the first class mail in the Columbus Metropolitan Area is now possible because of closely integrated schedules which govern the work of the Area's postal units and the transportation linking them together.

Faithful employees race against time throughout the night in order to make possible next day delivery of hundreds of thousands of letters to people in the area," Mr. Lambert explained.

"The experience gained here in improving first class mail service will be used as rapidly as humanly possible in other large metropolitan areas of the nation," Lambert emphasized.

"Furthermore, the improvement of first class mail service in the Columbus area will be reflected in better service all over America since a large proportion of the United States mail originates or terminates in cities like Columbus, strategically located to serve a large area," he concluded.

The Columbus Metropolitan Postal Area includes the following 34 counties:

Athens, Champaign, Clark, Coshocton, Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette, Franklin, Gallia, Guernsey, Harrison;

* * *

HOCKING, Jackson, Knox, Lawrence, Licking, Logan, Madison, Marion, Meigs, Morgan, Monroe;

Morrow, Muskingum, Noble, Perry, Pickaway, Pike, Scioto, Ross, Tuscarawas, Union, Vinton and Washington.

Posting bond, Moore was released and has not been heard from since. After an exhaustive search to bring him to trial, the local county court issued a capias for his arrest.

Registration Is Clarified

The Pickaway County Board of Elections today clarified registration requirements for the forthcoming May 3 primary election.

If registration is put into effect here, residents will be required to register prior to the November 1 general election, not prior to the primary election.

Several plans have been proposed to accomplish registration at convenience of the voter. One plan is to open the county's 45 precincts for one day in August to register all voters.

Another plan under consideration is to hold registration at the primary election. Persons voting in the primary may register at that time.

But regardless of whether they register or not, all eligible voters may ballot at the primary election without registering previously.

that he would surrender if officials would release Farra from prison or if Farra would agree to the surrender. State authorities would make no agreement to release either man.

"We can hold out here a long time," Rivera told the newsman. "We won't hurt the women unless we are rushed. We haven't cursed the women. We can wait. We might be awful skinpy (before it's over) but we can wait."

Rivera asked to talk to one newsman on the pool arrangement so he could list some of his grievances. The convict then listened on an extension phone while a trusty, held among the hostages, listed them.

The trusty said River's complaints included:

Procedures of the parole board in considering parole applications, the prison merit system, lack of proper medical attention, sanitary conditions at the prison, lack of educational facilities for inmates and the use of paddles for spanking unruly prisoners.

Rivera then permitted one of the hostages, Byron Bean, Nashville lawyer, to speak by telephone to the newsman. Bean, caught in the group while visiting a client, said the two convicts were holding 18 hostages, including five trusties. One, Sam Broyles, was released during the night because of illness. He suffers from stomach ulcers.

Rivera was sentenced for robbing of a motel at Dover, Tenn., in 1956. He also was serving a concurrent term for shooting a state highway patrolman during his effort to flee after the robbery.

Bomar described him as "one of the meanest prisoners we've ever had here."

Prison records show Farra is a former mental patient at the State Hospital for the Criminally Insane. He escaped, was recaptured several days later and then was placed in the penitentiary.

The hostages include Assistant Deputy Warden Carl Burns, four guards, two transportation officers, a prison telephone operator, Bean, two women employes, the wife of a convict and the prisoners who apparently took no part in the revolt.

Front Line of Defense

While space scientists are jubilant that the Pioneer V satellite is heading flawlessly into an orbit around the sun, the military implications of the peace-time research effort undoubtedly have not been lost on the Kremlin.

Pioneer V was boosted unerringly into space by the same rocket engine which propels the Thor intermediate range ballistic missile. That IRBM missile is not in blueprints, but actually on the front line of our defense against Soviet aggression.

The last Thor needed to complete the arming of three missile squadrons was delivered in England last week, for the defense of Great Britain and the free world. These United Kingdom-based, nuclear-armed missiles are capable of arcing more than 1,500 miles into the heartland of the Soviet Union.

The solar probe, therefore, demonstrates a military as well as a scientific capability.

The glamor of intercontinental ballistic missiles has tended to overshadow the deterrent effect of the shorter-range IRBMs which are "on active duty" in England, ready for instant retaliation. Also sometimes overlooked are the Snark guided missiles depolyed in Eurpoe and ready for immediate launching.

Courtin' Main

What knocks the heck out of checking accounts is being too quick on the draw.

Pioneer V Is Worth Its Cost

From the landlubber's point of view the best thing about space is that there's so much of it. There needs to be, because the current count shows 13 satellites whipping around up there, or out there, depending on where one stands.

The heartening fact is that of these 13 satellites still on the job, all but three were made in U. S. A. Of the four that still keep in touch with home — including the new and ambitious little Pioneer V — three were made in the U. S.

From the point of national pride, the celestial roll call is very satisfactory, and while no one can begrudge the Russians the pleasure of keeping one talking sputnik and three dummies out in high, wide and handsome orbit, less is now heard about what a gap they lead by in space exploration.

The bold flight of this newest satellite, Pioneer V, should answer several questions about the U. S. space program. Those who worry about costs might find comfort in the financial statistics on Pioneer V. It took about $14 million to put it up there, but it should stay about 100,000 years. That breaks down to a cost of about $140 a year.

Poker Reveals the Real Man

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—You never really know your fellow workers in a business firm until you join them in an office poker party.

Poker is a form of insomnia which separates the cards from the characters.

The game is usually played either in a rented hotel room or in the home of an employe whose wife has lost her sense of judgment—or merely wants to be sure, for one evening at least, where her husband really is.

Here are a few familiar types bound to turn up in any office game:

The friendly sandbagger—"It's only a game—I don't care if I win or lose," he says. But make one mistake in judgment, and he'll bet the fillings out of your teeth.

The career innocent—He insists he knows nothing about poker, but a lie detector test would show he majored in it throughout college and the war, has read every book on the subject, and has been barred from Las Vegas because of his skill.

The constant moaner—Win, lose or draw he groans all night like a man undergoing an appendectomy without an anesthetic. He can even find pain in a royal flush.

The butter-fingered tyro—When it's his turn to deal, he spills the cards in everybody's lap. If he loses more than two bits in one pot, he gulps a sedative.

Superstitious Sam — He can't play unless the wind is from the northwest there's a green ashtray on his right, his rabbit foot is in working order, or the deck is replaced every 12 minutes.

The silver-throated cacklebug—"A funny thing happened to me on the way here," he starts—and his mouth never shuts the rest of the evening. He confuses a poker game with a panel discussion at the United Nations. All talk and slow play makes him a dull boy.

The cigar store Indian—"Shut up and play!" he growls, his poker face hidden by a mask of cigar smoke. He didn't come for fun. He came for blood.

Top secret Charley—Playing his cards close to the vest isn't close enough for him. He holds them inside his shirt—as if the other players were Russian agents.

Paranoidal Pete—The cards are against him. The dealer is against him. Luck is against him. So are his wife, the boss and the 20th century. All are linked in one big plot to destroy him.

The bellicose bulldozer — "let's get the ribbon clerks out of the game," he rumbles, trying to bluff a big pot with two sickly pair. He shoots his wad—and five minutes later is trying to borrow from the ribbon clerks.

The soaring anarchist — Any normal poker game is too staid and tame for him. By midnight he's screaming, "Let's play with all the red cards wild."

The home-loving clockwatcher —Once he gets a buck and a half ahead, he plays with one eye on his watch, and one ear turned to the telephone, hoping his wife will call in time. When he's behind, he wants to stay all night—and invite the milkman to join them.

The post-mortem mortician — This carping critic insists on reliving every hand and pointing out how everybody around the table made a technical flaw except him. He lost.

The spy—He doesn't care for the game, or whether he loses. He regards poker as a necessary business expense—a way to find out what really is going on in the office.

The secret hoarder—After each pot he hides his winnings in his coat pockets, his shirt pockets, his pants pockets and trouser cuffs. Every time he moves he clinks. When the game ends and he tries to stand up, he is so top-heavy he falls over and breaks his nose on the table.

Office poker isn't just a game of cards. It's a character X ray.

Let's Call West 'Free'

By George Sokolsky

Words influence ideas and actions. The incorrect use of words produces incorrect ideas. It used to be that Soviet Russia was called Soviet Russia; that the satellites were called satellites; that the complex of Communist countries was referred to as Communist countries.

All of a sudden, the Communist nations are called East; the free nations are called West. For the Soviet complex, one might use the term, the Soviet Universal State, but that has not taken with the general public which has an insufficient grasp of history to recognize what it means. It is a good term because that is what Marxism seeks to establish, a single state based on one ideal of life and utilizing one technique of government and one control of the means of production and distribution.

The use of "East-West" is strictly fraudulent because it covers up a multitude of facts. For instance, are Greece, Turkey, Istael, Iran, West? Geographically, they are East but east of what? If we say that the West is representative of the NATO powers, is Nationalist China East?

Where is the line of demarcation? Is Cuba East or West? Is India, East, West, or nowhere? In the struggle for the control of men, there is no geographical line. The word, East, surely fits West Berlin as it fits East Berlin but one is anti-Marxist and the other is Marxist.

The present struggle for survival is not geographical. It is essentially a struggle over ideas, over ways of life, over philosophies of existence. The struggle

Instead of the misnomer, East-transcends geography, as President Eisenhower discovered in Uruguay, if nowhere else. The terms, "East-West," are propagandistically employed in the United States and elsewhere among our allies for the purpose of avoiding the constant use of the term Communist or Marxist. It is amazing how skillful the Russians have been in inventing self-serving words and phrases which become current in countries where they serve Russia's purposes.

The "Spirit of Camp David," a new device of confusion, apparently requires the avoidance of dirty words. But what is the "Spirit of Camp David"? It applies to a private conversation between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev at a Presidential retreat called Capt. David. What they said to each other is a secret. Therefore we have no idea as to what the spirit is. Perhaps it is a kind of political ectoplasm that floats about catching Strontium 90 until we are all suffocated by it. The phrase was not first employed in the United States.

Although we do not know what the "Spirit of Camp David" is or means, we do observe that it has certain characteristics. It ushered in a go-easy-on quarrels with Soviet Russia; created an atmosphere favorable to the Summit Conference. Khrushchev seems to take kindly to this atmosphere personally, but Mikoyan came to Cuba to stimulate antagonism to the United States in Cuba, 90 miles off the coast of Florida; the Berlin question was raised to the state of a brink; the Arab-Israel crisis was elevated from a flicker to a flame; the Communists in South America gave President Eisenhower an unpleasant reception wherever they could. In a word, the deed did not quite follow the spirit.

The "Spirit of Camp David" is not altogether a smooth and kindly poltergeist laboring for the peace of the world. It looks more like one who has fallen for gentle talk while the other side does the same kind of business at the same stand — only a new sign-board has been put up.

West," designed to mislead, let us use the simple terms, Soviet, Communist, Marxist for the euphemism some now call East, and for West, let us use the synthetic term, "Free World." This term is sufficiently descriptive although it is a misnomer, but it is our misnomer and we know what we mean. That is we know that we mean those countries which are allied or associated with us and most of which have some form of constitutional government and pursue some kind of a capitalist or mixed economy.

It makes sense to be precise about language. It makes sense to strike down propagandistic terms designed to confuse our people.

"The Spirit of Camp David" -- Indeed! I wonder if anyone anywhere could write a philosophic document explaining it.

Guard against an Ulcer

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

There's an old business proverb which goes something like this:

"If you want to hire a man for a high-powered job, get one with an ulcer."

The implication is obvious: if the guy really has the drive to do the job you want done, he must have developed an ulcer by this time.

It is a common belief that business problems and decisions and ulcers go hand in hand, that stress and strain are bound to result in ulcers. But this is not necessarily true.

Let's examine the facts.

Many high - powered executives do have ulcers, there's no doubt about that. Yet many more do not.

It is generally agreed that approximately ten per cent of our entire population has, or will have, an ulcer sometime during their lifetimes.

However, a much larger percentage of our population lives under the same strain and stress conditions as do many of those with ulcers. Yet these individuals have no ulcer trouble at all.

Conversely, many persons who take it easy and just sit back and let the world go by, do develop ulcers. So ulcers certainly are not the exclusive property of the harried executive or the hard-driving ambitious employe.

Since it is so difficult to pin-point the type of person most likely to develop an ulcer, how can you avoid developing one yourself?

Well, here are six general rules which, if followed, will give you a much better than average chance of avoiding troublesome ulcers.

1. Get adequate sleep — that means eight hours for most of you.

2. Practice some form of relaxation every day and do it for a longer period during the weekends.

3. Don't smoke too much and don't drink too much.

4. Take a real vacation once or even twice a year. And by "vacation" I don't mean one during which you work hard around the house.

5. Eat a balanced diet. Eat three meals a day and don't choose foods that will over burden your digestive tract.

6. Don't become worried, tense or overtired.

Simple, huh?

Question and Answer

E. C.: I have constant pain and burning in my eyes.

If I drive at night, I have to keep one eye closed.

Can you tell me what causes this?

Answer: Pain and burning in the eyes may be a warning of glaucoma or other serious eye disease.

It would be best to see an eye specialist at once.

50th YEAR Gallaher's PRESCRIPTION DRUG STORE

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — In time the world—if relations between nations turn sour and savage again—may look back wistfully upon these days as the happy period of conversation without progress.

For months now the United States and the Soviet Union have been pretty much soft-pedaling their differences to avoid wrecking ahead of time the summit meeting May 16 between President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Whether they accomplish anything, besides talking, is doubtful. But at least while East and West are talking they're not hissing.

With the summit meeting still almost two months away Secretary of State Christian A. Herter already is trying to prepare the American people against disappointment. He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee this week:

"I'm very frank to admit that I'm not optimistic that the summit will produce very great results."

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn) said it appears Eisenhower and Herter are going to the summit "without purpose, without plan without hope of success." And Herter replied: "It's a gamble."

Herter summed up what seems to be the attitude—at this particular moment in history—when he said in a period of pushbutton war like this one it would be too risky not to sit down and talk.

Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, denied Wednesday that Gore was right in complaining the President and Herter were going to the summit without purpose, plan or hope of success.

But unless Eisenhower does go to the Paris meeting with some clear-cut ideas he may get a rude, shock from Khrushchev. The Russian seems to know ahead of time what he wants.

He can turn the summit into a propaganda victory for the Soviet Union if he makes proposals which have broad appeals and all the American government can do is hem and haw.

Khrushchev sounds like a man who has no doubts of what he wants at the summit. Within no time at all after arriving in France Wednesday he told President Charles de Gaulle the West must back down and sign a peace treaty with Germany.

This would require the West to recognize Communist East Germany as an independent nation. The West has stalled on this ever since the war. Its ally, West Germany, wants a unified Germany—not recognition of the Soviet idea that Germany should be permanently divided.

Khrushchev in France harped on another old theme: He wants an end to NATO and the Western European Union, both of which include West Germany as a member.

Since this is the last thing the United States wants, the Eisenhower-Khrushchev summit talks should be lively. But only a country boy with stars in his eyes at this moment can hope the talks will produce any solutions.

The U. S. Postoffice department has opened a permanent postal history museum in that department's building in Washington. Don't tell us Uncle Sam, too, has joined the growing ranks of stamp collectors!

Bobby, a spaniel dog, has retrieved over 500 lost balls for members of the Maldon, England, Golf club. Ah! — a pooch with a purpose!

A tiddledywinks match involving the Cambridge university team was called off suddenly. Somebody's snap judgment?

Zadok Dumkopf blames his current sore throat on spring's misty weather. Dummy says, as far as he's concerned, these are the true hoarse and muggy days.

A Copenhagen, Denmark, hotel includes pills on its breakfast menu. However, they're vitamin, not bicarbonate of soda.

Now it's discovered Princess Meg's fiance, Antony Armstrong-Jones, is actually descended from royalty. Just a case of the Jones' keping up with the Windsors?

Some rookie ballplayers, opines Grandpappy Jenkins, should feel themselves lucky if allowed to stay in spring camp until the snow shoveling season is over back home.

Front Line of Defense

While space scientists are jubilant that the Pioneer V satellite is heading flawlessly into an orbit around the sun, the military implications of the peace-time research effort undoubtedly have not been lost on the Kremlin.

Pioneer V was boosted unerringly into space by the same rocket engine which propels the Thor intermediate range ballistic missile. That IRBM missile is not in blueprints, but actually on the front line of our defense against Soviet aggression.

The last Thor needed to complete the arming of three missile squadrons was delivered in England last week, for the defense of Great Britain and the free world. These United Kingdom-based, nuclear-armed missiles are capable of arcing more than 1,500 miles into the heartland of the Soviet Union.

The solar probe, therefore, demonstrates a military as well as a scientific capability.

The glamor of intercontinental ballistic missiles has tended to overshadow the deterrent effect of the shorter-range IRBMs which are "on active duty" in England, ready for instant retaliation. Also sometimes overlooked are the Snark guided missiles depolyed in Eurpoe and ready for immediate launching.

Courtin' Main

What knocks the heck out of checking accounts is being too quick on the draw.

Pioneer V Is Worth Its Cost

From the landlubber's point of view the best thing about space is that there's so much of it. There needs to be, because the current count shows 13 satellites whipping around up there, or out there, depending on where one stands.

The heartening fact is that of these 13 satellites still on the job, all but three were made in U. S. A. Of the four that still keep in touch with home — including the new and ambitious little Pioneer V — three were made in the U. S.

From the point of national pride, the celestial roll call is very satisfactory, and while no one can begrudge the Russians the pleasure of keeping one talking sputnik and three dummies out in high, wide and handsome orbit, less is now heard about what a gap they lead by in space exploration.

The bold flight of this newest satellite, Pioneer V, should answer several questions about the U. S. space program. Those who worry about costs might find comfort in the financial statistics on Pioneer V. It took about $14 million to put it up there, but it should stay about 100,000 years. That breaks down to a cost of about $140 a year.

Poker Reveals the Real Man

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—You never really know your fellow workers in a business firm until you join them in an office poker party.

Poker is a form of insomnia which separates the cards from the characters.

The game is usually played either in a rented hotel room or in the home of an employe whose wife has lost her sense of judgment—or merely wants to be sure, for one evening at least, where her husband really is.

Here are a few familiar types bound to turn up in any office game:

The friendly sandbagger—"It's only a game—I don't care if I win or lose," he says. But make one mistake in judgment, and he'll bet the fillings out of your teeth.

The career innocent—He insists he knows nothing about poker, but a lie detector test would show he majored in it throughout college and the war, has read every book on the subject, and has been barred from Las Vegas because of his skill.

The constant moaner—Win, lose or draw he groans all night like a man undergoing an appendectomy without an anesthetic. He can even find pain in a royal flush.

The butter-fingered tyro—When it's his turn to deal, he spills the cards in everybody's lap. If he loses more than two bits in one pot, he gulps a sedative.

Superstitious Sam — He can't play unless the wind is from the northwest there's a green ashtray on his right, his rabbit foot is in working order, or the deck is replaced every 12 minutes.

The silver-throated cacklebug—"A funny thing happened to me on the way here," he starts—and his mouth never shuts the rest of the evening. He confuses a poker game with a panel discussion at the United Nations. All talk and slow play makes him a dull boy.

The cigar store Indian—"Shut up and play!" he growls, his poker face hidden by a mask of cigar smoke. He didn't come for fun. He came for blood.

Top secret Charley—Playing his cards close to the vest isn't close enough for him. He holds them inside his shirt—as if the other players were Russian agents.

Paranoidal Pete—The cards are against him. The dealer is against him. Luck is against him. So are his wife, the boss and the 20th century. All are linked in one big plot to destroy him.

The bellicose bulldozer — "let's get the ribbon clerks out of the game," he rumbles, trying to bluff a big pot with two sickly pair. He shoots his wad—and five minutes later is trying to borrow from the ribbon clerks.

The soaring anarchist — Any normal poker game is too staid and tame for him. By midnight he's screaming, "Let's play with all the red cards wild."

The home-loving clockwatcher —Once he gets a buck and a half ahead, he plays with one eye on his watch, and one ear turned to the telephone, hoping his wife will call in time. When he's behind, he wants to stay all night—and invite the milkman to join them.

The post-mortem mortician — This carping critic insists on reliving every hand and pointing out how everybody around the table made a technical flaw except him. He lost.

The spy—He doesn't care for the game, or whether he loses. He regards poker as a necessary business expense—a way to find out what really is going on in the office.

The secret hoarder—After each pot he hides his winnings in his coat pockets, his shirt pockets, his pants pockets and trouser cuffs. Every time he moves he clinks. When the game ends and he tries to stand up, he is so top-heavy he falls over and breaks his nose on the table.

Office poker isn't just a game of cards. It's a character X ray.

Let's Call West 'Free'

By George Sokolsky

Words influence ideas and actions. The incorrect use of words produces incorrect ideas. It used to be that Soviet Russia was called Soviet Russia; that the satellites were called satellites; that the complex of Communist countries was referred to as Communist countries.

All of a sudden, the Communist nations are called East; the free nations are called West. For the Soviet complex, one might use the term, the Soviet Universal State, but that has not taken with the general public which has an insufficient grasp of history to recognize what it means. It is a good term because that is what Marxism seeks to establish, a single state based on one ideal of life and utilizing one technique of government and one control of the means of production and distribution.

The use of "East-West" is strictly fraudulent because it covers up a multitude of facts. For instance, are Greece, Turkey, Istael, Iran, West? Geographically, they are East but east of what? If we say that the West is representative of the NATO powers, is Nationalist China East?

Where is the line of demarcation? Is Cuba East or West? Is India, East, West, or nowhere? In the struggle for the control of men, there is no geographical line. The word, East, surely fits West Berlin as it fits East Berlin but one is anti-Marxist and the other is Marxist.

The present struggle for survival is not geographical. It is essentially a struggle over ideas, over ways of life, over philosophies of existence. The struggle

Instead of the misnomer, East-transcends geography, as President Eisenhower discovered in Uruguay, if nowhere else. The terms, "East-West," are propaggandistically employed in the United States and elsewhere among our allies for the purpose of avoiding the constant use of the term Communist or Marxist. It is amazing how skillful the Russians have been in inventing self-serving words and phrases which become current in countries where they serve Russia's purposes.

The "Spirit of Camp David, a new device of confusion, apparently requires the avoidance of dirty words. But what is the "Spirit of Camp David"? It applies to a private conversation between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev at a Presidential retreat called Capt. David. What they said to each other is a secret. Therefore we have no idea as to what the spirit is. Perhaps it is a kind of political ectoplasm that floats about catching Strontium 90 until we are all suffocated by it. The phrase was not first employed in the United States.

Although we do not know what the "Spirit of Camp David" is or means, we do observe that it has certain characteristics. It ushered in a go-easy-on quarrels with Soviet Russia; created an atomosphere favorable to the Summit Conference. Khrushchev seems to take kindly to this atmosphere personally, but Mikoyan came to Cuba to stimulate antagonism to the United States in Cuba, 90 miles off the coast of Florida; the Berlin question was raised to the state of a brink; the Arab-Israel crisis was elevated from a flicker to a flame; the Communists in South America gave President Eisenhower an unpleasant reception wherever they could. In a word, the deed did not quite follow the spirit.

The "Spirit of Camp David" is not altogether a smooth and kindly poltergeist laboring for the peace of the world. It looks more like one side has fallen for gentle talk while the other side does the same kind of business at the same stand — only a new sign-board has been put up.

West," designed to mislead, let us use the simple terms, Soviet, Communist, Marxist for the euphemism some now call East, and for West, let us use the synthetic term, "Free World." This term is sufficiently descriptive although it is a misnomer, but it is our misnomer and we know what we mean. That is we know that we mean those countries which are allied or associated with us and most of which have some form of constitutional government and pursue some kind of a capitalst or mixed economy.

It makes sense to be precise about language. It makes sense to strike down propagandistic terms designed to confuse our people.

"The Spirit of Camp David" -- indeed! I wonder if anyone anywhere could write a philosophic document explaining it.

"I'm the sitter—where's my opponent?"

Guard against an Ulcer

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

There's an old business proverb which goes something like this:

"If you want to hire a man for a high-powered job, get one with an ulcer."

The implication is obvious: if the guy really has the drive to do the job you want done, he must have developed an ulcer by this time.

It is a common belief that business problems and decisions and ulcers go hand in hand, that stress and strain are bound to result in ulcers. But this is not necessarily true.

Let's examine the facts.

Many high - powered executives do have ulcers, there's no doubt about that. Yet many more do not.

It is generally agreed that approximately ten per cent of our entire population has, or will have, an ulcer sometime during their lifetimes.

However, a much larger percentage of our population lives under the same strain and stress conditions as do many of those with ulcers. Yet these individuals have no ulcer trouble at all.

Conversely, many persons who take it easy and just sit back and let the world go by, do develop ulcers. So ulcers certainly are not the exclusive property of the harried executive or the hard-driving ambitious employe.

Since it is so difficult to pin-point the type of person most likely to develop an ulcer, how can you avoid developing one yourself?

Well, here are six general rules which, if followed, will give you a much better than average chance of avoiding troublesome ulcers.

1. Get adequate sleep — that means eight hours for most of you.
2. Practice some form of relaxation every day and do it for a longer period during the weekends.
3. Don't smoke too much and don't drink too much.
4. Take a real vacation once or even twice a year. And by "vacation" I don't mean one during which you work hard around the house.
5. Eat a balanced diet. Eat three meals a day and don't choose foods that will over burden your digestive tract.
6. Don't become worried, tense or overtired.

Simple, huh?

Question and Answer

E. C.: I have constant pain and burning in my eyes.

If I drive at ninght, I have to keep one eye closed.

Can you tell me what causes this?

Answer: Pain and burning in the eyes may be a warning of glaucoma or other serious eye disease.

It would be best to see an eye specialist at once.

50th YEAR Gallaher's PRESCRIPTION DRUG STORE

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — In time the world—if relations between nations turn sour and savage again—may look back wistfully upon these days as the happy period of conversation without progress.

For months now the United States and the Soviet Union have been pretty much soft-pedaling their differences to avoid wrecking ahead of time the summit meeting May 16 between President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Whether they accomplish anything, besides talking, is doubtful. But at least while East and West are talking they're not hissing.

With the summit meeting still almost two months away Secretary of State Christian A. Herter already is trying to prepare the American people against disappointment. He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee this week:

"I'm very frank to admit that I'm not optimistic that the summit will produce very great results."

Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn) said it appears Eisenhower and Herter are going to the summit "without purpose, without plan without hope of success." And Herter replied: "It's a gamble."

Herter summed up what seems to be the attitude—at this particular moment in history—when he said in a period of pushbutton war like this one it would be too risky not to sit down and talk.

Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, denied Wednesday that Gore was right in complaining the President and Herter were going to the summit without purpose, plan or hope of success.

But unless Eisenhower does go to the Paris meeting with some clear-cut ideas he may get a rude, shock from Khrushchev. The Russian seems to know ahead of time what he wants.

He can turn the summit into a propaganda victory for the Soviet Union if he makes proposals which have broad appeals and all the American government can do is hem and haw.

Khrushchev sounds like a man who has no doubts of what he wants at the summit. Within no time at all after arriving in France Wednesday he told President Charles de Gaulle the West must back down and sign a peace treaty with Germany.

This would require the West to recognize Communist East Germany as an independent nation. The West has stalled on this ever since the war. Its ally, West Germany, wants a unified Germany—not recognition of the Soviet idea that Germany should be permanently divided.

Khrushchev in France harped on another old theme: He wants an end to NATO and the Western European Union, both of which include West Germany as a member.

Since this is the last thing the United States wants, the Eisenhower-Khrushchev summit talks should be lively. But only a country boy with stars in his eyes at this moment can hope the talks will produce any solutions.

JUDGES ANGERED—Two Oakland, Calif., municipal judges angrily accused the State department of exerting "pressure and coercion" over a case involving Alan H. W. Chiang, 25, grandson of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Young Chiang, a college student, is shown entering court, where he got a three-day suspended sentence for driving 80 mph on a freeway last Jan. 23. Cuyahoga County Fund Exhausted by Relief

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cuyahoga County went about $1,800,000 over its 1959 budget, all because of an increased load for welfare and relief. County Administrator Lawrence W. Murtaugh disclosed this after County Commissioners asked him to look into a $10-monthly increase requested by the Welfare Department for relief clients in boarding homes.

Wooden water pipes about 120 years old, and still serviceable, were recently dug up in downtown Chicago. The pipes were made from white pine logs 11 inches in diameter with a four-inch diameter hole.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chicken and roast beef loom as likely bets for Sunday dinner, judging from specials advertised by supermarkets and neighborhood grocery stores this weekend.

Broilers and fryers, once largely a summer item, have become a year-'round staple in recent years. This week's bargains stem from a 6 per cent increase in chick placements in January and the February gain of about 5 per cent over a year earlier. The number of eggs set in incubators in mid-January was around 45 million, which compared with a September low of 32 million.

Specials in beef center on rib roast and top or bottom round roast. Prices are marked down 4 to 12 cents a pound from last week in some Southern and Midwestern areas. Leg of lamb is higher in the East and South and, therefore, only infrequently offered as the special feature.

Eggs advanced in price reflecting the small shipments caused by recent extensive snow storms. Prices are up 2 to 6 cents a dozen over a wide area.

While this works a hardship on those housewives seeking meat substitutes during Lent, alternate suggestions are shrimp and rice, both of which are on the government's March list of plentiful, and inexpensive, foods. Cottage cheese also is suggested for meatless meals.

Vegetables on the outstanding buy list this week are broccoli, cabbage, carrots, celery, green onions, iceberg lettuce, mushrooms, medium yellow onions, potatoes (although slightly higher than last week), radishes, sweet potatoes and rhubarb.

Good buys are asparagus, beets, cauliflower endive, escarole, parsley, spinach, rutabagas, small to medium peppers and yellow, straight-necked squash. You'll pay slightly more for artichokes, snap beans, cucumbers, eggplant, peas and tomatoes.

A big increase in imports of Chilean honeydew melons lands them on the outstanding fruit buy list along with grapefruit, oranges and pineapples.

Kent State Student Accused of Murder

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Victor L. Buzard of Akron, 22-year-old Kent State University student, faces arraignment here Friday on second-degree murder charges in the fatal shooting Jan. 10 of his girl friend, Miss Paula Slife, 21, also of Akron. The indictment was returned Tuesday by the grand jury. Miss Slife was shot in Buzard's car shortly after the couple had returned from Sunday church services, police said.

Ohio Asks Dismissal of Wheat Claim

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy today asked U.S. District Court to dismiss a federal suit to collect $28,000 in penalties for overplanting wheat at farms of state institutions.

The answer to the federal action said the court lacks jurisdiction.

The U.S. government charged last month that farms at eight Ohio institutions exceeded wheat quotas in 1955 and 1956.

In his answer, McElroy said:

"The State of Ohio during these years only planted 6,857 acres in wheat. This is less than 10 per cent of the total acreage under cultivation.

"Regulations on interstate commerce by numerous decisions cannot be disputed. But to call the private growing of wheat by a sovereign state for the exclusive use of institutional inmates and livestock within its state boundaries an act of interstate commerce poses a new and frightening perverted use of what was once a timely act of control.

Mrs. Richard discussed quick snacks and planned snacks. She gave suggestions of a diet for the tubby tean, concentrated on broiled, baked and roasted meats instead of fryed meats with gravy.

She distributed recipes among the group. Members of the club presented her with a present at the close of her talk.

Tentative plans for a husband's-night-out were discussed with a steak cook-out planned in the spring.

Matching Tablecloth-Dress Is Rage in Dallas Fashions

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—You can match your dress to your tablecloth down here in the land of the barbecue and the chuckwagon, where you can ride out on the range and rope your own steak.

Charles Dickey, a breezy Texan who manufactures some of the cream of the crop of Dallas casual fashions, has been doing a landoffice business in tablecloth-checked patio and play dresses, delivered complete with barbecue tablecloths to match. Take your choice of coral, blue, pink black or turquoise checks.

"Funny thing about it," drawls Dickey, "is that they've been selling just as fast in New York as in Texas—and you know darn well nobody in New York has room for a barbecue table, Texas size."

Well, pardner, they don't roast their steers whole on New York penthouse terraces, but there's usually room for a man-size hunk of beef, even on those new-fangled grills, and nothing gives a New Yorker a greater kick then going Western, right in the middle of the skyscrapers. Which is one reason for the popularity of these Texas fashions, from Mailbu to Manhattan.

Dicky's showing climaxed a colorful parade of cool and casual summer fashions by Dallas manufacturers, viewed with enthusiasm by the visiting press. After seeing a cross-section of Southwestern styles, from swim suits to antebellum ball gowns, the consensus among editors is that there's no excuse for any woman to look dowdy, when she can buy these gay, good-looking and easily cared-for clothes with pennies saved from the grocery budget.

Consider, for instance, getting a smart black sheer cotton baretop dress and cover-up jacket, good for all day at the office and all night out on the town, for less than $18. That's a typical number from Brogan and Jennings.

In these days of the higher cost of everything, it's comforting to know that—if she tries—a woman can still get her money's worth in clothes.

In Arabic the name of the Sahara Desert means "nothing".

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

The 'High Cost' of Religion

DEAR ABBY: We are not overly religious people, but we do like to go to church once in a while. It seems to me that every time we turn around in church we are getting hit for money. I thought religion was free. I realize that churches have to have some money, but I think it is getting to be a racket. Just what do churches do with all their money

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Even priests, ministers and rabbis must eat. And since they work fulltime at their tasks, the churches must support them. Staff, professional choir members and musicians must also be paid. Buildings must be maintained, heated, lighted and beautified. (And, of course, first they must be built!) Custodial staff must eat and feed their families. Most churches engage in philanthropic work (aid to needy, missions and education); hence, they have their financial obligations. Even orchids, contrary to folklore, do not live on air. Churches can't live on air either. Religion, like water, may be free, but when they pipe it to you, you've got to help pay for the piping. And the piper!

DEAR ABBY: I have been sitting at a certain stool at the same bar for over 20 years. Everybody in town knows that when I come in, the end stool is mine. There is a certain character who knows that the end stool is mine, but lately he has been sitting there when I come in.

How can I get the idea over to him that that stool belongs to me without causing a scene

END STOOL

DEAR END: Sit on another stool and quit sucking your thumb.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for the woman whose husband refused to take their son to a psychiatrist because he was "afraid it would show up on his record".

I had the same experience with my daughter. I'd give anything on earth if I had gone ahead and taken professional help. I sneaked my daughter to a psychiatrist and he told me he thought she could be helped, but the treatment had to be started immediately. I was afraid to defy my husband, so I let it go.

Abby, she didn't finish high school. She got pregnant, ran away from home and had her baby in a "home" and adopted it out. Then she became a call girl and later broke up a home where there were four children. I don't know where she is as she never contacts me any more. My heart is broken. Ask this mother to weigh this against the fears of taking a child to a psychiatrist because it might "show on his record".

TOO LATE NOW

"What's your problem" Write to Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

The 'High Cost' of Religion

DEAR ABBY: We are not overly religious people, but we do like to go to church once in a while. It seems to me that every time we turn around in church we are getting hit for money. I thought religion was free. I realize that churches have to have some money, but I think it is getting to be a racket. Just what do churches do with all their money

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Even priests, ministers and rabbis must eat. And since they work fulltime at their tasks, the churches must support them. Staff, professional choir members and musicians must also be paid. Buildings must be maintained, heated, lighted and beautified. (And, of course, first they must be built!) Custodial staff must eat and feed their families. Most churches engage in philanthropic work (aid to needy, missions and education); hence, they have their financial obligations. Even orchids, contrary to folklore, do not live on air. Churches can't live on air either. Religion, like water, may be free, but when they pipe it to you, you've got to help pay for the piping. And the piper!

DEAR ABBY: I have been sitting at a certain stool at the same bar for over 20 years. Everybody in town knows that when I come in, the end stool is mine. There is a certain character who knows that the end stool is mine, but lately he has been sitting there when I come in.

How can I get the idea over to him that that stool belongs to me without causing a scene

END STOOL

DEAR END: Sit on another stool and quit sucking your thumb.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for the woman whose husband refused to take their son to a psychiatrist because he was "afraid it would show up on his record".

I had the same experience with my daughter. I'd give anything on earth if I had gone ahead and taken professional help. I sneaked my daughter to a psychiatrist and he told me he thought she could be helped, but the treatment had to be started immediately. I was afraid to defy my husband, so I let it go.

Abby, she didn't finish high school. She got pregnant, ran away from home and had her baby in a "home" and adopted it out. Then she became a call girl and later broke up a home where there were four children. I don't know where she is as she never contacts me any more. My heart is broken. Ask this mother to weigh this against the fears of taking a child to a psychiatrist because it might "show on his record".

TOO LATE NOW

"What's your problem" Write to Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Experts Say Dogs Need Simple Diet

CINCINNATI (AP)—Meat scraps dried skimmed milk and other expensive ingredients are not necessary to keep dogs healthy, the fifteenth annual Distillers Feed Conference was told today.

Continuing studies over the past five years have shown that a commercial type of dog food—both biscuit and meat varieties—containing corn distillers dried solubles, fill the bill.

That was the report from the Distillers Feed Research Council, sponsor of today's meeting.

Drs. C. M. McCay and Robert Wanner of the Department of Animal Husbandry, Cornell University, gave the report. They said feeding tests showed distillers solubles aid the growth of pups and the reproductive performance of mature dogs.

The solubles are by-products of beverage distillation.

Livestock feeders were advised that they can use cheap and supplemental fats for fattening steers. They will not work, however, for sheep.

The facts reported here came from trials conducted at the University of Kentucky, and reported by Dr. R. B. Grainger of Lexington.

Dr. J. K. Lossli of Cornell University, told the meeting that a decade of experiments with dairy cattle has proved that distilled dried feeds increase milk production and are considered the top ingredient for dairy supplements.

British Debate Big Question: Who Does Prince Look Like

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II's baby prince—Andrew Albert Christian Edward—had Britons happily arguing today over whether he looks more like ma or pa.

The majority say he's mother's boy.

Prince Andrew, 33 days old, was making his photographic debut. He peeked out coyly for the first time from the pages of all but one of Britain's national newspapers.

Exception: The Communist Daily Worker.

Every other paper devoted several pages to court photographer Cecil Beaton's pictures and to an analysis of the prince's names—announced Tuesday.

The Daily Express scrutinized its pictures and concluded:

"Babies, let's face it, look like babies."

But it went on to venture: "Without fear of contradiction—but in the sure knowledge that contradictions there will be—the Express declares that Andrew has his mother's mouth."

He had a twinkle in his baby blue eyes, though, which made one think of his father when he was making one of his famous sallies, said the Express.

The Daily Herald didn't believe he looked much like either parent but conceded he had the same shape face as Prince Philip.

Most everyone liked the pictures but the Daily Sketch said Beaton's posing was "far too formal and stuffy," and any one of its staff photographers could have done better.

As for the names, it is more than 500 years since there was a Prince Andrew in a British royal family. The last one was a grandson of Robert II of Scotland.

St. Andrew is the patron saint alike of Scotland and of Greece. The royal family has close connections with both countries.

It also was the name of Prince Philip's father, Prince Andrew of Denmark and Greece.

When Simon Bolivar was liberating South American countries in the early 1800s, he wrote a friend: "Above all send me a printing press, which is as useful as guns and ammunition."

Man To Be Buried In Grave He Had Dug

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP) — The body of Alva Lee Arnold will be lowered Saturday into the grave he dug for himself two years ago.

British Debate Big Question: Who Does Prince Look Like

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II's baby prince—Andrew Albert Christian Edward—had Britons happily arguing today over whether he looks more like ma or pa.

The majority say he's mother's boy.

Prince Andrew, 33 days old, was making his photographic debut. He peeked out coyly for the first time from the pages of all but one of Britain's national newspapers.

Exception: The Communist Daily Worker.

Every other paper devoted several pages to court photographer Cecil Beaton's pictures and to an analysis of the prince's names—announced Tuesday.

The Daily Express scrutinized its pictures and concluded:

"Babies, let's face it, look like babies."

But it went on to venture: "Without fear of contradiction—but in the sure knowledge that contradictions there will be—the Express declares that Andrew has his mother's mouth."

He had a twinkle in his baby blue eyes, though, which made one think of his father when he was making one of his famous sallies, said the Express.

The Daily Herald didn't believe he looked much like either parent but conceded he had the same shape face as Prince Philip.

Most everyone liked the pictures but the Daily Sketch said Beaton's posing was "far too formal and stuffy," and any one of its staff photographers could have done better.

As for the names, it is more than 500 years since there was a Prince Andrew in a British royal family. The last one was a grandson of Robert II of Scotland.

St. Andrew is the patron saint alike of Scotland and of Greece. The royal family has close connections with both countries.

It also was the name of Prince Philip's father, Prince Andrew of Denmark and Greece.

When Simon Bolivar was liberating South American countries in the early 1800s, he wrote a friend: "Above all send me a printing press, which is as useful as guns and ammunition."

Man To Be Buried In Grave He Had Dug

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP) — The body of Alva Lee Arnold will be lowered Saturday into the grave he dug for himself two years ago.

Arnold, 80-year-old retired house painter, dug the grave in the family lot here in preparation for his eventual death. He died Wednesday at his home in Massillon, apparently from a heart attack.

Republicans Given Outside Chance Of Recapturing Ohio Senate Control

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—With four-year terms, unexpired terms, bonus terms, and all . . . .

The Republicans have an outside chance to recapture control of the Ohio Senate in November, but the Democrats are sitting in the driver's seat. The Democrats have a solid block of carryover votes going in and—as the gamblers would say—the Republicans have theirs to get.

Next to your own city or village council, the Ohio Senate is the smallest and most free-wheeling legislative body which affects your daily life — often through your pocketbook. But, sometimes it isn't free-wheeling; it can be a stubborn group and stop a popular move cold in its tracks.

Control of the Ohio Senate is in no way as simple a matter as party dominance in the Ohio House where every member must stand for re-election every two years.

Senators serve four-year terms. Approximately half of them are elected every two years. On top of that, there is a complex formula, affected by the 10-year census which regulates the size of the Senate—from a low point of 33 members to a peak of 38. That formula is called "apportionment." It is intended to give each senatorial district its fair share of representation during the course of a 10-year period.

Last year, the Senate had 33 members with one senatorial district having a "bonus" member under the apportionment formula laid down by the Ohio Constitution. That bonus district loses its extra member next year, but six other districts pick up one bonus member each. That means the Senate in the 104th General Assembly meeting next January will have the maximum possible number of members—38.

That the Republicans have their work cut out for them in their bid to wrest Senate control from the Democrats in November is illustrated by the fact the Democrats have 10 carryover members who still have two years left in their four-year terms. The Republicans have only four carryovers.

The Democrats: Edwar H. Dell (Butler), John C. Smith (Montgomery), J. Sherman Porter (Gallia), Arthur Blake (Belmont), Charles J. Carney (Mahoning), Milton E. Cox (Lake), Anthony O. Calabrese (Cuyahoga), Ray T. Miller Jr. (Cuyahoga), Julius J. Petrash (Cuyahoga), and Frank W. King (Lucas).

The Republicans: William H. Deddens (Hamilton), Robert R. Shaw (Franklin), Theodore M. Gray (Miami) and Harry E. Schwall (Fulton).

The battlegrounds where Senate control apparently will be decided are Columbus, Dayton, Akron, Canton, Lima and northwestern Ohio, the Lorain - Mansfield - Ashland area and the east-central district made up of such smaller cities as a cambridge, Coshocton, Dover - New Philadelphia, Mount Vernon, Mount Gilead and Wooster.

In order to achieve a bare majority of 20 votes, the GOP must hold all its present seats, including the one from which Sen. Tom V. Moorehead (Muskingum) resigned to run for Congress, and:

Upset Sen. William Baker, Dayton Democrat, by electing Charles W. Whalen Jr., now a Republican member of the House.

Upset Sen. Thomas F. O'Shaughnessy, Columbus Democrat, by electing Kline L. Roberts, now Republican whip in the House, and pick up a bonus seat.

Defeat Democratic Sen. Danny D. Johnson of New Philadelphia with the probable Republican nominee, Kenneth F. Berry, veteran House member, and pick up a bonus seat in the same district.

Pick up the bonus seat in the 21st District (Stark and Carroll counties.

Retain the seat now held by Republican Sen. Charles H. Mosher of Oberlin who is running for Congress and pick up a bonus seat.

The only alternative to any one of those victories would be a comeback by former Republican Sen. Fred Danner of Akron over freshman Democratic Oliver Ocasek, a high school principal. Ocasek defeated Danner in 1958 by fewer than 400 votes.

Here is a district-by-district breakdown of the senate situation and present indications of the likely outcomes: (X denotes incumbent).

Fifth-Sixth (Greene, Fayette, Clinton, Highland, Ross counties)—One to be elected, Lowell Fess (R-X) favored.

Seventh-Eighth—(Adams, Pike, Scioto, Vinton, Jackson, Lawrence, Meigs, Gallia counties)—J. Sherman Porter (D-X), carryover.

Ninth—14th (Fairfield, Hocking, Athens, Morgan, Washington, part of Noble and part of Monroe counties)—One to be elected; C. Stanley Mechem (R-X) favored.

Tenth (Franklin and Pickaway counties)—Two to be elected. For the regular term, House Republican whip Kline L. Roberts must be rated a slight favorite over Thomas F. O'Shaughnessy (D-X). For the bonus seat, Republican House member Richard B. Metcalf is favored.

32nd (Williams, Defiance, Allen, Paulding, Van Wert, Mercer, Auglaize counties) — Ross Pepple (R-X) won in 1958 by fewer than 1,000 votes, may face another close fight in November; he also has primary opposition.

Nanette Fabray Finds Help For Career in Mental Aid

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Most of my friends realize I had a mental illness and accept the fact that I am cured. But some people look at me strangely and wonder when I'm going to fly off again."

During a break in rehearsals for an NBC special show for Friday night, Nanette Fabray discussed a serious subject.

"I don't discuss why I had my breakdown, because that is a very personal thing to me," she explained. "But I think talking about my experience might encourage others who are in the same fix to seek help. And it might help others to realize that mental patients can be cured and returned to a useful life."

Nanette's problems came to a head in 1953 after a lifetime in show business. She had enjoyed great success in Broadway musicals and was planning a night club date, though she hated night clubs.

"I couldn't learn the act," she recalled. "I spent two months trying to memorize one number and I wouldn't admit to myself that something was wrong. One day I was talking to a friend on the telephone. All I would say in answer to his questions was: 'No more. No more. No more.' "

Her next memory was being in a mental hospital. "It was a great shock to me," she said, "when I realized I was in a place that had bars on the window and where I was given only a spoon to eat with. I felt like a leper."

After seven months of intensive treatment, she was released. Two years of psychiatric aid followed.

"My first work afterward was with Sid (Caesar)," she said. "I told him frankly what had happened to me and explained that I didn't know whether I could even remember lines. But he said he would take a chance."

It was a chance worth taking. The two seasons of Caesar and Fabray on TV are among most viewers' fondest memories. So great was Nanette's achievement that she won two Emmies in one year from the TV Academy.

"There is no doubt that mental treatment helped me as a performer," she commented.

The average weekly number of new claims filed in March of last year was 9,937, and that of continuing claims 91,782.

Her next memory was being in a mental hospital. "It was a great shock to me," she said, "when I realized I was in a place that had bars on the window and where I was given only a spoon to eat with. I felt like a leper."

After seven months of intensive treatment, she was released. Two years of psychiatric aid followed.

"My first work afterward was with Sid (Caesar)," she said. "I told him frankly what had happened to me and explained that I didn't know whether I could even remember lines. But he said he would take a chance."

It was a chance worth taking. The two seasons of Caesar and Fabray on TV are among most viewers' fondest memories. So great was Nanette's achievement that she won two Emmies in one year from the TV Academy.

"There is no doubt that mental treatment helped me as a performer," she commented.

Drive Starts To Increase Visits to U.S.

Foreign Travelers Prove To Be Best 'Export for Nation'

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—A drive is under way to pep up another of America's lagging exports — the foreign tourist. Both in numbers and in spending, he is still far behind that U. S. import, the American tourist abroad.

The foreign visitor ranks as an U. S. export because he brings money into the country—just as do the sale of our other exports, cotton, cars, refrigerators, electrical machinery and so on.

When you spend your dollars abroad you add to the total of U. S. imports—all paid for by U. S. dollars given to the foreign sellers. In the statistical tables a foreign inn keeper ranks right along with a foreign manufacturer.

Why the urgency to get more overseas visitors to spend more here?

Dollars paid out to other lands—for goods, services, investments, travel and foreign aid—have been running almost four billion dollars a year more than money received from the sale of our goods, services and from returns on our existing investments abroad.

This has caused a loss of part of our gold reserves and if continued could put the dollar itself under pressure.

The government is now moving to attack this problem on all fronts—including sightseeing. This isn't as small an item as you may believe. It runs into billions of dollars a year.

President Eisenhower is supporting the effort by travel organizations to promote 1960 as "Visit U.S.A. Year." In a message to Congress calling for measures to increase export volume in general, the President said: "I have directed comprehensive steps to emphasize the promotion of tourist travel to the United States." The steps will be spelled out later.

This drive may bring in 600,000 visitors from overseas for a new high. The Chase Manhattan Bank, New York, says in its bimonthly review that the visitors are expected to spend about one billion dollars here.

But the number of Americans going overseas for sightseeing, visiting, business or study may run close to 1¾ million this year—more than double the 1953 figure. They may spend around 2½ billion dollars, with about two billion of that spent abroad or for transportation on foreign carriers.

AG Official Disputes Oregon Man's Claim of Innocence

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Agriculture Department official today disputed sworn testimony of Earl C. Corey, former grain storage official, that Corey had no knowledge of laws and regulations against outside activities which netted Corey more than $117,000.

Ralph S. Roberts, administrative assistant secretary of the department, told investigating senators that Corey knew about the laws and department regulations.

"It may well be that a statutory provision may have been violated by Mr. Corey," Roberts told Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo).

Symington, chairman of a Senate agriculture subcommittee investigating costs and profits in the multimillion dollar grain storage industry, said Corey's testimony involved "a factual story of corruption in government."

"We had before us evidence that one of the highest Department of Agriculture officials held a hidden interest in a company that was contracting with the government," Symington said of Corey's testimony here on March 11. "It was a clear-cut conflict-of-interest case."

"Almost as shocking as this official's behavior, was the sworn testimony of the witness that he had never been instructed in regard to conflict-of-interest by his superiors in the Department of Agriculture," Symington added.

Corey, former Portland, Ore., supervisor for the department's Commodity Stabilization Service which operates farm price support and grain storage programs, resigned Jan. 22.

Officials said that since then evidence as to Corey's profits from "silent partnership" in grain storage firms doing government business has been presented to a grand jury.

Answering questions of Symington, Roberts testified "the department has not been neglectful."

Roberts presented a 14-page summary of department regulations and activities to prevent such actions as have been ascribed to Corey.

Tiger Baseballers To Open 16-Game Schedule April 5

Circleville High School's 1960 edition baseball team is slated to open a 16-game schedule April 5 at Chillicothe.

Coach Dick Fisher will head into his second year at the helm of the diamond corps. Last season he guided the Tigers to the South Central Ohio League championship and to the finals of the Central District Tournament.

On April 9 the Tigers travel to Logan for a doubleheader, then return here to open the home season in a return match with Chillicothe.

All hom› games will be played at Ted Lewis Park. Practice also will be held there.

* * *

THE SCHEDULE calls for 12 league games this season. This is an increase of two loop games, made possible by the entry of Pleasant View into varsity SCO competition.

Coach Fisher's squad is slated for two double-headers, the one at Logan and at Hillsboro on April 16.

All practice sessions so far have been held inside the CHS gym due to inclement weather. Coach Fisher said he hopes to get outside as soon as possible.

The inside drills have been limited to conditioning, throwing, fielding and skull practices.

Fisher will face a rebuilding task this season, having lost 10 lettermen through graduation. Veterars returning include catcher Harry Strawser, infielder-outfielder Jake Bailey, outfielder Dan Leonhardt and infielders Steve Helwagen and Jim Wellington.

The Tigers' biggest problem seems to be pitching, a department which has no returning lettermen. Leonhardt has been working out as a 'iurler, along with senior Dave Smith.

* * *

A PROMISING crop of freshmen and sophomores, however, may brighten the scene for Coach Fisher. Several stars of last season's local Babe Ruth League are seeking starting berths.

Heading the list of newcomers are Sam Weller, Jim Wellington, Dick Kline, Jack Cook, Larry Justice, Leonard Eblin, Roger Roebuck, John Good, Brian Bell, Jim Spalding and Dick McKenzie.

Weller was an ace hurler for last season's championship General Electric Babe Ruthers, along with Wellington, Good, Roebuck and Eblin.

Kline, Cook, Justice, Spalding, Bell and McKenzie also were outstanding performers in the summer league.

In all Coach Fisher has 33 candidates seeking positions. The roster lists nine freshmen, 13 sophomores, seven juniors and four seniors.

Freshmen are Wiliam Clifton, Bill Meyers, Cook, Bob Diltz, Ray Taylor, Fred Wittich, Dave Han-n..hs, Jerry Francis and Good.

* * *

SOPHOMORES are Irving Ellis, Weller, Kline, Wellington, Eblin, Roebuck, Luther Johnson, Pat Rooney, John Adkins, Spalding, Bell, Jim Anderson and McKenzie.

Juniors are Strawser, Bailey, Jim Tootle, Justice, Alex Cook, Helwagen and Larry Callahan.

Seniors are Leonhardt, Smith, Dave Huffer and Dennis Pickens.

Here is the schedule:

April 9—at Logan (2)

Golf Bosses Seek Method To Cut Length of Drives

NEW YORK (AP) — "Count down: 5-4-3-2--boom!"

Cape Canaveral Another missile shot into orbit Nope, just the basement of Golf House, 40 E. 38th St. Manhattan — and another golf ball shot into nowhere.

The U. S. Golf Assn. today took the wraps off a $40,000 contraption designed to keep golf balls from traveling so far.

It's an ironic twist: pros and duffers alike bust a stomach muscle trying to get more distance on their drives. And the golf fathers hire scientists to cut them down.

"This is not just a silly whim," said Joseph Dey, executive director of the USGA, with obvious concern. "With the development of longer hitters in golf and the manufacturers' attempts to improve the golf ball, we are faced with the threat of making thousands of golf courses obsolete."

The latest USGA machine is the third contrived by the USGA since 1947 to check and place limits on the flight of a golf ball.

This one—a rather classy looking collection of pipes and bolts no bigger than Junior's short wave set—is designed to measure the ball's "resiliency factor." A companion machine in the basement of Golf House—bigger and less intricate—measures the initial velocity. Another machine, located at Winged Foot in Mamaroneck, N.Y., tests the actual flight of the ball.

The latest machine shoots the ball by compressed nitrogen through a barrel against a surface equivalent to the face of a wooden golf club. Electronic eyes record the result of the impact.

If the ball shows too much resiliency—more than 75 per cent of its potential, say—it is declared illegal.

"The deal for present-day golf courses is a ball which can be hit by the average long-hitting pro no more than 240 yards on the carry with a 20-yard flat roll," said Dr. William Gordon, who cooked up the latest monstrosity. "We know the manufacturers can make a ball which will carry 50 yards farther. This we must prevent."

Orr Named Principal at Greenfield

Paul Orr, head football coach at Greenfield McClain High School the last six years, was named principal of the Highland County School yesterday.

Orr had served as assistant principal along with his grid coaching duties. A football successor will be named.

The veteran coach will succeed C. E. Booher who will retire at the end of this school year. Booher has been a faculty member at Greenfield since 1926 and principal since 1939.

Orr was appointed assistant principal last fall, but continued as grid coach. He also served as faculty manager of athletics. As principal he will relinquish both duties.

Greenfield's football team notched a perfect 9-0 record last fall to win the South Central Ohio League and take laurels as one of the state's powerhouses.

Carmean Tops In Accuracy For Kingston

Bill Carmean was declared Kingston High School's most accurate field goal shooter during the 1959-60 basketball season.

Carmean hit 49.3 per cent of his shots during the season in compiling 240 points from the field to go along with his 45 free throws for 285 points, second best on the Redskin squad.

Leading scorer was David Nogle with 363 points good for a 19.1 average. Carmean was second in average with 15-points per game. Nogle hit 40 per cent from the field.

Leading foul shooter was Bill Chaffin with 52 of 66 attempts for a 78.9 percentage. Chaffin was fourth in scoring with 146 points and a 7.7 average.

* * *

THIRD TOP scorer was Danny Vollmar with 222 points for a 12.3 average. Roy Congrove was the second leading field goal shooter with 41.3 per cent. He compiled 70 points for a 4.1 average.

For the year Kingston tallied 1,211 points as a team for a 63.74 average. It held opponents to 1,057 points for a 55.63 average.

The team shooting was 37.4 percent from the floor and 58.5 per cent at the charity stripe. The Redskins posted an 11-8 season slate behind the guidance of Coach Gary Walsh.

Yank Rookies Hurl No-Hitter

Pair Shuts Out Phils In Near-Perfect Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A couple of rookie right-handers —Johnny James and Bill Bethel —pitched a no-hitter for the New York Yankees against the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday and just missed a perfect game in chalking up a 4-0 shutout.

A base on balls to Johnny Callison in the first inning gave the Phillies their only base runner. The walk came on a 3-1 pitch by James who worked the first five innings and fanned three. Bethel struck out five in his 4-inning stint. James was with Richmond of the International League last year and Bethel with Omaha of the American Assn.

The no-hitter was the second of the exhibition season. Bennie Daniels and Jim Umbricht shared a Pittsburgh no-hitter against Detroit a week ago.

In both Florida and Arizona, the pitchers were really in form Wednesday.

Carl Willey, Milwaukee right-hander, threw seven shutout innings as the Braves beat Kansas City 2-0 at Bradenton.

Daniels also went seven for Pittsburgh, but the right-hander gave up four hits and three runs in the Pirates' 6-4 victory over St. Louis at Fort Myers.

Left-handers Johnny Podres of Los Angeles and Joe Nuxhall of Cincinnati turned in solid six-inning tricks.

Podres held Baltimore runless as the world champions stopped the Orioles 3-1 at Vero Beach, and Nuxhall checked Washington with two runs in the Reds' 4-3 triumph at Orlando.

And the rookie pitchers also had their innings.

A new left-hander, Jake Striker, limited Detroit to one run and four hits in the first five innings as the Chicago White Sox tripped the Tigers 7-3 at Sarasota.

Wynn Hawkins, a rookie right-hander blanked San Francisco on one hit for the opening four innings at Tucson where Cleveland won 6-4.

Billy Monbouquette didn't get the start, but he turned in a spectacular relief job for the Boston Red Sox. The flashy right-hander faced 13 Chicago Cubs, retired 12 of them and struck out six, including five in succession. He also received credit for the 5-2 victory at Mesa.

Big Ten Chiefs May Relax Total Post-Season Curbs

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten is far from becoming a drifting athletic derelict despite the most trying times in its influential 65-year history.

The current tug-of-war between the general conservatism of faculty control—with its dogged pursuit of overemphasis—and the aggressiveness of some athletic departments—who maintain there is no overemphasis to pursue—has been at best resolved in a draw.

No violence will be done to the status quo. But the tup-of-war may wring out a more objective approach to the problem by both sides.

Ohio State's winning of the post-season NCAA basketball championship came with ironic timing—when the conference was having second thought about the ban on all post-season athletic contests, from fencing to football.

When the Big Ten recently killed resumption of a Rose Bowl football contract, directors rebelliously voted to end post-season comppetion in all sports.

On the surface, their argument was one of consistency in thinking: That there was discrimination against football, a sport that had to carry the entire financial load of the athletic program.

But basically, they wanted to jolt the governing faculty groups into a reappraisal of post-season football.

The post-season ban now is being presented before each Big Ten school for decision on how its faculty representatives are to vote at the May meetings in East Lansing, Mich.

Already the presidents of Ohio State, Illinois, and Minnesota have urged that such a ban not be considered. These three schools, plus Northwestern and Wisconsin, recently voted to defeat an agreement to continue Big Ten participation in the Rose Bowl. Thus, their stand against a post-season ban on all sports is significant and gives rise to the feeling that the ban will be overridden.

But, at the same time, has there been a reappraisal of post-season football, which is what the athletic directors desire.

It appears unlikely.

President David Dodd Henry of Illinois keynoted high level thinking when he said that most competition was considered to run continuously as a regular season. But there is more than a month lapse between the end of the football season and the Rose Bowl game—a period critics think disrupts the educational program. There is no such time lag in other sports.

Athletic directors, generally, feel that their proposal of a post-season ban on all sports was a gamble that paid off to the extent that it may result in a less critical approach to the football question in the future. The eventuality of another Big Ten Rose Bowl contract remains far from dead.

Big Ten presidents hold their regular meeting next month. There are observers who say they must be viewed as the powers in conference athletic leadership. They may try for a more cohesive effort that may be reflected in the crucial institutional voting in May. But their stand in all probability never will be made public.

One question they probably will attempt to reconcile is the accusation that Big Ten athletics in several schools have not been placed fully within faculty control.

If this arises, there is bound to be a deeper understanding of the charges from outside the conference that there was an attempt by athletic directors last November for a grab of power. At that time, the directors obstensibly got an equal vote with faculty representatives.

Their vote was there, all right, but the faculty men had the virtual restraint of veto on all matters of basic policy and could screen any items for institutional consideration.

Redlegs Run Win Streak To 2 Games

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—It's a little early to boast of such things but, thanks to a 4-3 victory Wednesday over the Washington Senators Cincinnati's Reds have a two-game winning streak in the records—Grapefruit League records, that is.

"They'll have a go at Kansas City on their home lot tonight, the second after - dark game of the training season.

To Manager Freddie Hutchinson, there was more to the victory in Orlando than pencil - on - paper showed. For one thing, Eddie Kasko, in his first appearance since injuring his right hand in a practice slide, looked like a solid contender for third base against Willie Jones who finished the 1959 season there after moving in from Cleveland.

Kasko got one of the Reds' eight hits, despite the badly injured little finger of his right hand that refuses to close as he grips a bat.

Nursing the injured digit hasn't dampened Kasko's spirit. "I'm not worried," he said. "I've been hitting good. I'm confident I can hit and I know I've got to hit to win the job at third."

He's right about his ability at the plate: He has hit safely five times in eight at-bats in exhibitions.

Merchant Team To Meet Today

The Circleville Merchants Softball team will meet at Benny's Court and Main Restaurant at 7:30 p. m. today to lay plans for the coming season.

Old and new team members are invited, along with merchants interested in sponsoring a uniform for the squad.

OU Cagers Book OSU for Dec. 1

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio University will meet Ohio State in basketball Dec. 1, the first time since 1938 officials said at a sports banquet here.

The game will mark the dedication of Grover Center, an arena seating 6,800.

At the banquet Wednesday night Howard Jolliff, 6-foot-6 Canton senior, was named the Bobcats' most valuable player. Chosen by his teammates, Jolliff scored 400 points in the 1960 season as his team took the Mid-American cage crown and posted a 17-8 over-all record.

Jolliff and Bunk Adams of Toledo were named co-captains for the 1960-61 season.

The National Open Golf Championship record is 276 set by Ben Hogan at Los Angeles' Riviera course in 1948.

All-Star Cage Team Picked

Outfit Rated as Best In Olympic Trials

NEW YORK (AP) — A university all-star basketball team, loaded with four All-Americas and backed by other outstanding players, today was picked by two coaches as the probable winner of the Olympic trials at Denver, March 31-April 2.

Coaches George Smith of Cincinnati and Lou Rossini of New York University, after looking over the collection of stars, predicted the squad would beat Ohio State's NCAA champions and six other teams at Denver. The tourney is being run to determine the 12-man squad which will play in the Olympics at Rome, Aug. 25-Sept. 11.

All-Americas Darral Imhoff of California, Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati, Jerry West of West Virginia, and Tony Jackson of St. John's (NY) team with such luminaries as Tom Stith of St. Bonaventure, Terry Dischinger of Purdue, Roger Kaiser of Georgia Tech and Tom Sanders of NYU. Pete Newell, retiring coach at California, will coach the team.

Five to seven of the winning squad at Denver will be picked for the Olympic team. The remaining players will be selected from the other teams in the tournament.

The other teams competing for the Olympic spot will be two small college outfits representing the NCAA and the NAIA, an all-star armed service team, the Barlesville (Okla) Oilers as winners of the National Industrial League and two other teams to be selected from the AAU tournament in process at Denver.

Tiger Baseballers To Open 16-Game Schedule April 5

Circleville High School's 1960 edition baseball team is slated to open a 16-game schedule April 5 at Chillicothe.

Coach Dick Fisher will head into his second year at the helm of the diamond corps. Last season he guided the Tigers to the South Central Ohio League championship and to the finals of the Central District Tournament.

On April 9 the Tigers travel to Logan for a doubleheader, then return here to open the home season in a return match with Chillicothe.

All hom› games will be played at Ted Lewis Park. Practice also will be held there.

• • •

THE SCHEDULE calls for 12 league games this season. This is an increase of two loop games, made possible by the entry of Pleasant View into varsity SCO competition.

Coach Fisher's squad is slated for two double-headers, the one at Logan and at Hillsboro on April 16.

All practice sessions so far have been held inside the CHS gym due to inclement weather. Coach Fisher said he hopes to get outside as soon as possible.

The inside drills have been limited to conditioning, throwing, fielding and skull practices.

Fisher will face a rebuilding task this season, having lost 10 lettermen through graduation. Veterars returning include catcher Harry Strawser, infielder-outfielder Jake Bailey, outfielder Dan Leonhardt and infielders Steve Helwagen and Jim Wellington.

The Tigers' biggest problem seems to be pitching, a department which has no returning lettermen. Leonhardt has been working out as a 'iurler, along with senior Dave Smith.

• • •

A PROMISING crop of freshmen and sophomores, however, may brighten the scene for Coach Fisher. Several stars of last season's local Babe Ruth League are seeking starting berths.

Heading the list of newcomers are Sam Weller, Jim Wellington, Dick Kline, Jack Cook, Larry Justice, Leonard Eblin, Roger Roebuck, John Good, Brian Bell, Jim Spalding and Dick McKenzie.

Weller was an ace hurler for last season's championship General Electric Babe Ruthers, along with Wellington, Good, Roebuck and Eblin.

Kline, Cook, Justice, Spalding, Bell and McKenzie also were outstanding performers in the summer league.

In all Coach Fisher has 33 candidates seeking positions. The roster lists nine freshmen, 13 sophomores, seven juniors and four seniors.

Freshmen are William Clifton, Bill Meyers, Cook, Bob Diltz, Ray Taylor, Fred Wittich, Davr Han-n.hs, Jerry Francis and Good.

• • •

SOPHOMORES are Irving Ellis, Weller, Kline, Wellington, Eblin, Roebuck, Luther Johnson, Pat Rooney, John Adkins, Spalding, Bell, Jim Anderson and McKenzie.

Juniors are Strawser, Bailey, Jim Tootle, Justice, Alex Cook, Helwagen and Larry Callahan.

Seniors are Leonhardt, Smith, Dave Huffer and Dennis Pickens.

Here is the schedule:

Golf Bosses Seek Method To Cut Length of Drives

NEW YORK (AP) — "Count down: 5-4-3-2--boom!"

Cape Canaveral Another missile shot into orbit Nope, just the basement of Golf House, 40 E. 38th St. Manhattan — and another golf ball shot into nowhere.

The U. S. Golf Assn. today took the wraps off a $40,000 contraption designed to keep golf balls from traveling so far.

It's an ironic twist: pros and duffers alike bust a stomach muscle trying to get more distance on their drives. And the golf fathers hire scientists to cut them down.

"This is not just a silly whim," said Joseph Dey, executive director of the USGA, with obvious concern. "With the development of longer hitters in golf and the manufacturers' attempts to improve the golf ball, we are faced with the threat of making thousands of golf courses obsolete."

The latest USGA machine is the third contrived by the USGA since 1947 to check and place limits on the flight of a golf ball.

This one—a rather classy looking collection of pipes and bolts no bigger than Junior's short wave set—is designed to measure the ball's "resiliency factor." A companion machine in the basement of Golf House—bigger and less intricate—measures the initial velocity. Another machine, located at Winged Foot in Mamaroneck, N.Y., tests the actual flight of the ball.

The latest machine shoots the ball by compressed nitrogen through a barrel against a surface equivalent to the face of a wooden golf club. Electronic eyes record the result of the impact.

If the ball shows too much resiliency—more than 75 per cent of its potential, say—it is declared illegal.

"The deal for present-day golf courses is a ball which can be hit by the average long-hitting pro no more than 240 yards on the carry with a 20-yard flat roll," said Dr. William Gordon, who cooked up the latest monstrosity. "We know the manufacturers can make a ball which will carry 50 yards farther. This we must prevent."

Orr Named Principal at Greenfield

Paul Orr, head football coach at Greenfield McClain High School the last six years, was named principal of the Highland County School yesterday.

Orr had served as assistant principal along with his grid coaching duties. A football successor will be named.

The veteran coach will succeed C. E. Booher who will retire at the end of this school year. Booher has been a faculty member at Greenfield since 1926 and principal since 1939.

Orr was appointed assistant principal last fall, but continued as grid coach. He also served as faculty manager of athletics. As principal he will relinquish both duties.

Greenfield's football team notched a perfect 9-0 record last fall to win the South Central Ohio League and take laurels as one of the state's powerhouses.

Yank Rookies Hurl No-Hitter

Pair Shuts Out Phils In Near-Perfect Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A couple of rookie right-handers—Johnny James and Bill Bethel—pitched a no-hitter for the New York Yankees against the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday and just missed a perfect game in chalking up a 4-0 shutout.

A base on balls to Johnny Callison in the first inning gave the Phillies their only base runner. The walk came on a 3-1 pitch by James who worked the first five innings and fanned three. Bethel struck out five in his 4-inning stint. James was with Richmond of the International League last year and Bethel with Omaha of the American Assn.

The no-hitter was the second of the exhibition season. Bennie Daniels and Jim Umbricht shared a Pittsburgh no-hitter against Detroit a week ago.

In both Florida and Arizona, the pitchers were really in form Wednesday.

Carl Willey, Milwaukee right-hander, threw seven shutout innings as the Braves beat Kansas City 2-0 at Bradenton.

Daniels also went seven for Pittsburgh, but the right-hander gave up four hits and three runs in the Pirates' 6-4 victory over St. Louis at Fort Myers.

Left-handers Johnny Podres of Los Angeles and Joe Nuxhall of Cincinnati turned in solid six-inning tricks.

Podres held Baltimore runless as the world champions stopped the Orioles 3-1 at Vero Beach, and Nuxhall checked Washington with two runs in the Reds' 4-3 triumph at Orlando.

And the rookie pitchers also had their innings.

A new left-hander, Jake Striker, limited Detroit to one run and four hits in the first five innings as the Chicago White Sox tripped the Tigers 7-3 at Sarasota.

Wynn Hawkins, a rookie right-hander blanked San Francisco on one hit for the opening four innings at Tucson where Cleveland won 6-4.

Billy Monbouquette didn't get the start, but he turned in a spectacular relief job for the Boston Red Sox. The flashy right-hander faced 13 Chicago Cubs, retired 12 of them and struck out six, including five in succession. He also received credit for the 5-2 victory at Mesa.

Big Ten Chiefs May Relax Total Post-Season Curbs

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten is far from becoming a drifting athletic derelict despite the most trying times in its influential 65-year history.

The current tug-of-war between the general conservatism of faculty control—with its dogged pursuit of overemphasis—and the aggressiveness of some athletic departments—who maintain there is no overemphasis to pursue—has been at best resolved in a draw.

No violence will be done to the status quo. But the tup-of-war may wring out a more objective approach to the problem by both sides.

Ohio State's winning of the post-season NCAA basketball championship came with ironic timing—when the conference was having second thought about the ban on all post-season athletic contests, from fencing to football.

When the Big Ten recently killed resumption of a Rose Bowl football contract, directors rebelliously voted to end post-season comppetion in all sports.

On the surface, their argument was one of consistency in thinking: That there was discrimination against football, a sport that had to carry the entire financial load of the athletic program.

But basically, they wanted to jolt the governing faculty groups into a reappraisal of post-season football.

The post-season ban now is being presented before each Big Ten school for decision on how its faculty representatives are to vote at the May meetings in East Lansing, Mich.

Already the presidents of Ohio State, Illinois, and Minnesota have urged that such a ban not be considered. These three schools, plus Northwestern and Wisconsin, recently voted to defeat an agreement to continue Big Ten participation in the Rose Bowl. By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Music lovers will have an opportunity tonight to see a reasonably exact facsimile of an important event in the development of American jazz.

CBS' birthday salute to Paul Whiteman (10)11 Eastern Standard Time) will include a reconstruction of Whiteman's famed 1924 Aeolian Hall concert during which "Rhapsody in Blue" was first played.

It will be as authentic as possible, too, because the man who arranged it, Pops Whiteman himself, was on hand to recall all the details.

Whiteman, who will be 70 next Monday, remembers that the whole concert was whipped up in 12 days.

"I'd been talking about it for a long time," he says, "and George Gershwin and I had even decided on the name for the piece he would write for the occasion. Then some band leader announced he'd give a concert in the Metropolitan Opera House, so I had to beat him to it. The only place I could rent was Aeolian Hall — for 12 days ahead. I called George and told him he'd have to get 'Rhapsody in Blue' written in 12 days. He screamed, but he did it. Gershwin was only about a page ahead of us writing the music as we rehearsed it."

Bing Crosby, who joined the Whiteman band years later as one of the Ryhthm Boys, does a taped bit on tonight's show.

Someday somebody is going to write a drama about a circus clown who is a merry fellow without grievous problems of frustrations, but, of course, I'm just dreaming.

Wednesday night we had "The Charlie and The Kid," on CBS' Steel Hour. And, boy, did that Charlie clown have problems and was he sick, sick, sick — drinking too much and thinking he was still a high-wire artist. I sure felt sorry for that little orphan he was caring for.

Anyway, Richard Boone has had a little acting vacation under the big top and now he can go climb back on his horse.

Recommended tonight: Tenessee Ernie Ford Show, NBC, 9:30-10 Eastern Standard Time—with his protege, Tommy Sands, as guest; Revue, CBS, 10-11—a birthday salute to Paul Whiteman on his 70th anniversary, loaded with musical nostalgia.

Views on Television-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Music lovers will have an opportunity tonight to see a reasonably exact facsimile of an important event in the development of American jazz.

CBS' birthday salute to Paul Whiteman (10)11 Eastern Standard Time) will include a reconstruction of Whiteman's famed 1924 Aeolian Hall concert during which "Rhapsody in Blue" was first played.

It will be as authentic as possible, too, because the man who arranged it, Pops Whiteman himself, was on hand to recall all the details.

Whiteman, who will be 70 next Monday, remembers that the whole concert was whipped up in 12 days.

"I'd been talking about it for a long time," he says, "and George Gershwin and I had even decided on the name for the piece he would write for the occasion. Then some band leader announced he'd give a concert in the Metropolitan Opera House, so I had to beat him to it. The only place I could rent was Aeolian Hall — for 12 days ahead. I called George and told him he'd have to get 'Rhapsody in Blue' written in 12 days. He screamed, but he did it. Gershwin was only about a page ahead of us writing the music as we rehearsed it."

Bing Crosby, who joined the Whiteman band years later as one of the Ryhthm Boys, does a taped bit on tonight's show.

Someday somebody is going to write a drama about a circus clown who is a merry fellow without grievous problems of frustrations, but, of course, I'm just dreaming.

Wednesday night we had "The Charlie and The Kid," on CBS' Steel Hour. And, boy, did that Charlie clown have problems and was he sick, sick, sick — drinking too much and thinking he was still a high-wire artist. I sure felt sorry for that little orphan he was caring for.

Anyway, Richard Boone has had a little acting vacation under the big top and now he can go climb back on his horse.

Recommended tonight: Tenessee Ernie Ford Show, NBC, 9:30-10 Eastern Standard Time—with his protege, Tommy Sands, as guest; Revue, CBS, 10-11—a birthday salute to Paul Whiteman on his 70th anniversary, loaded with musical nostalgia.

Ailing Bulganin Is Put Out To Pasture

MOSCOW (AP) —Usually reliable informants say former Premier Nikolai Bulganin, sick and plagued by attacks as a member of the so-called anti-party group, has been retired on a pension and is back in Moscow.

The informants said Bulganin was put out to pasture after appealing to his old traveling companion and successor, Nikita Khrushchev.

Bulganin returned to the Soviet capital from his obscure post as chairman of the Stravropol Economic Council, the informants said.

They gave this account:

Bulganin went to see Khrushchev, who succeeded him as a premier in March 1958, and complained that local party officials in Stavropol were making his life miserable. They continually cast up to him his confession that he was linked with former Premier Georgi Malenkov, ex-Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and former Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich in the "anti-party group" that threatened Khrushchev's position.

Khrushchev listened sympathetically, then suggested that he accept a monthly pension of 3,000 rubles — $750 at the Soviet exchange rate — and retire from active life. Bulganin accepted and is now living in a villa on the outskirts of Moscow.

Missourian's Bid Accepted For Dam on Osage River

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) James N. Rice soon will become the owner of a genuine United States government lock and dam

The property is U.S. Lock and Dam No. 1—there never was a No. 2—on the Osage River. It's 14 miles southeast of Jefferson City, near where the Osage empties into the Missouri.

Rice will become the owner because a bid of $10,500 he submitted proved to be the highest among 20 received by the General Services Administration.

Rice, 42, a bachelor who works for the State Detective Bureau, was surprised when a newsman told him the GSA had accepted his offer.

What will he do with his acquisition?

"Dam if I know. I hadn't given the matter any throught because I had no idea my bid would be high enough. I like to fish, and I understand the fishing is real good out there. I guess that's what was in the back of my mind when I bid on it. I might make a resort out of it sometime."

The rundown property includes about 10 acres of park-like land beside the river, three old frame houses, and several lesser structures. The concrete-base dam is 17 feet high and 220 feet long. Its lock is 42 feet wide.

The facility was built in the early 1900s to provide water for shallow-draft barges to make it up the river as far as Warsaw, Mo., 173 miles from the mouth. River traffic in those days was heavy, but construction of Bagnell Dam 25 miles upstream in the 1930s put No. 1 out of business.

The Corps of Engineers maintained No. 1 until nine years ago.

As for paying for the lock and dam, Rice says he'll do it in cash, "but it will mean scraping the bottom of the barrel."

Ohio Hospital Group Slated for Convention

The convention brings together hospital administrators, representatives of departments within hospitals and members of 15 affiliated para-medical groups.

Ninety-five per cent of exports from Boliva are metals, mostly tin.
